Flood Of Bills Pours Into House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Both houses of the legislature held skeleton sessions Wednesday in advance of floor sessions next Tuesday formally reopening their 1974 deliberations.

It was the cut off date for bill introductions in the House, and members poured 73 new proposals into that chamber. The Senate set no cutoff date, and none was introduced.

Speaker A.G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, set no target date for adjournment of the session which started Jan. 2, but reiterated he hopes the lawmakers can wind up "some time in June."

The legislature was in recess from April 4, a break that gave members a chance to campaign in the May 7 primary election. It paid off for all but three.

Only 22 incumbents had primary opposition in the House, and they all won renomination. The lower chamber wound up 14 lame ducks, however — those who decided to retire or to run for higher office. Their terms expire the first of next year.

Three incumbent senators were defeated — Sens. Harry L. Armstrong, R-17 Logan; Howard C. Cook, R-1 Toledo, and Anthony F. Novak, D-23 Cleveland.

Subjects of the 73 new House bill covered a wide range, including a pair by Rep. Jerome P. Stano, D-7 Parma, on highway safety. He proposed the registration of automobile repairmen and mandatory auto inspection in an effort to enhance safer operation of motor vehicles.

Stano was the author of a new state law that prohibits the use of studded snow tires on state highways except during the period between Nov. 15 and March 15.

Other new measures offered in the House covered subjects ranging from hunting and strip mining to a series of measures which in various ways would increase state aid to public education.

Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, proposed in one measure to guarantee all school districts in the state a $75 per pupil increase in their subsidies for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Other proposals would: —Prohibit the use of public money to provide school busing designed solely to bring about racial balance in the schools.

—Require an adult to accompany and supervise anyone under 18 using a firearm while hunting.

—Appropriate $1.5 million for the Sundry Claims Board for emergency disaster grants to pay damages such as those resulting from the devastating tornadoes in Greene County last month.

—Require a license as well as a presently required permit to engage in strip mining in Ohio.

—Expand Ohio's instructional grant program for needy college students to include those enrolled part time.

Businesses Crack Anti-Inflation Front

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council's heralded anti-inflation commitments from big business appear about to crack unless Congress votes to hold them together.

Ford Motor Co. announced Wednesday price increases averaging $163 for its 1974 autos, and the council said General Motors was planning to follow suit.

The Ford increase was quickly branded by Council Director John T. Dunlop as unwarranted and in violation of Ford's commitment last December not to increase prices further for 1974 models, barring unforeseen major economic events.

A council source said Ford may have blundered in its timing since the announcement could provide additional incentive for Congress to grant the council authority to enforce anti-inflation commitments.

The Senate scheduled a vote for today on a bill that would grant enforcement authority to the council. The old authority expired on April 30 with the rest of the administration's wage and price control program.

About 300 major businesses in 17 industries made anti-inflation commitments to the council in exchange for early release from the government's wage and price controls before April 30.

Dunlop heralded these commitments at the time as being a major help in the fight against inflation.

Defections from the commitments also accentuated problems facing William E. Simon, sworn in Wednesday as Treasury Secretary, succeeding George P. Shultz.

At a White House ceremony, Simon said inflation was his No. 1 challenge. He called for a "new political will" by Congress and the administration to bring it under control.

The Labor Department today releases its Wholesale Price Index for April, which was expected to show another big jump in some wholesale prices.

Dunlop told newsmen inflation is boring deeper into the economy and may be reaching the point where it is irreversible.

After the Ford increase was announced, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., said it showed a need for new standby control authority.

The administration backs the legislation to give it new authority to enforce commitments, but it opposes standby controls. It argues they would only induce additional wage and price increases.

Not Guilty Pleas Set In Zebra Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three men charged with first-degree murder in three Zebra street slayings plan to plead innocent in court today, their lawyer says.

Attorney Clinton White of Oakland said Wednesday his clients also would seek bail when they appear before Municipal Court Judge Agnes O'Brien Smith.

Larry C. Green, 22; J.C. Simon, 29, and Manuel Moore, also 29, were among seven young blacks arrested in police raids May 1 in connection with the string of apparently random murders and assaults of white persons in San Francisco during the last six months.

The other four men were released for lack of evidence.

Thirteen persons have been killed and seven wounded in the Zebra case, given that name from the police radio channel used in the investigation.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto has said he met with an informer during the night of April 28 who told him the slayings and nonfatal attacks on whites were carried out by a murder cult called the Death Angels.

The informer reportedly testified Tuesday night before a grand jury probing the slayings. The jury is expected to conclude its deliberations next Monday.

Local OBES Office To Be Closed

The Circleville office of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services will be closed it was announced today by OBES administrator William E. Garnes.

The last day of service to be provided by the local office which operates from the relic room of Memorial Hall is May 15.

The action has been taken as a result of a budget cut of federal funds according to a spokesman from the OBES. However, under Unemployment Compensation Legislation which became effective Jan. 1, 1974, Garnes said the use of mail claim service will be instituted.

Circleville Mayor Frank Barnhill said today that he intended to investigate the closing of the local OBES office and see if there were any way to keep it open.

"This is one of the services that we think should be provided to the citizens of the city and county," Barnhill said. "It is a disservice to the community to close the office and impose a hardship on the unemployed in that they have to travel to Chillicothe or Columbus to file an original claim and must visit that office once each month."

The bureau of employment services contends the closing of the local office will not affect service to claimants.

Under the mail claim procedure, claimants would have to report to the regular OBES office of their choice just once every four weeks. They would, during the mail claim period, have to meet all eligibility requirements for unemployment compensation.

During that visit the claimant will be provided with material required to file the claim by mail.

A total of 12 parttime officers throughout the state will be closed. Estimated annual savings to the agency as a result of closing down the parttime offices has been estimated at $40,000.

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew to Saudi Arabia today to talk to King Faisal about American technical aid for the economic development of the desert kingdom and to seek the monarch's support for a disengagement agreement between Syria and Israel.

In an unusually warm welcoming statement, Foreign Minister Omar Saquaf said the Saudi people "cherish nothing but amity and friendliness for the people of the United States." But he added that the American people should know that the Saudis are a religious Moslem people who "will not be swayed."

After seeing Faisal, Kissinger was flying to Cairo to brief President Anwar Sadat on the progress of his negotiations with Syria and Israel.

The secretary is counting on both Faisal and Sadat, as well as Algerian President Houari Boumedienne, to influence the Syrians to settle for only a partial Israeli withdrawal from the Golan Heights.

Meanwhile, both Americans and Israelis reported some progress in Kissinger's talks with the Syrians and Israelis.

It was the first time Israeli sources reported progress in the negotiations to separate the warring forces on the Golan Heights. American officials said a disengagement agreement was "a little more likely." But one American source cautioned that an agreement was "far away."

Kissinger traveled to Damascus on Wednesday with new Israeli proposals and returned to Jerusalem with the Syrian reaction. "The discussions have now reached a very concrete stage," said Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban after a three-hour meeting with Kissinger.

An authoritative Israeli source said the Syrians did not completely reject the Israeli proposals. The source said Kissinger brought back a series of comments on the Israeli plan, not a counter proposal.

One U.S. official said Kissinger was beginning to detect a "glimmer of understanding" between Syria and Israel.

Daley Given $25,000 Raise

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard Daley, undergoing treatment for high blood pressure and diabetes, has received a get-well present from the city council.

The council voted Wednesday 45-0 to give Daley a $25,000 raise, bringing his annual salary to $60,000. The raise has been in the works for some time and was not connected with the mayor's illness.

A Daley spokesman said the mayor also is undergoing tests and it's uncertain when he'll be released.

Judiciary Panel Sifts Evidence

WASHINGTON (A) — The House Judiciary Committee is getting its first look at the celebrated briefcase full of grand jury evidence relating to President Nixon's role in the Watergate cover-up.

The material, forwarded to the committee for its impeachment inquiry by Judge John J. Sirica of U.S. District Court, has been examined by the chairman, ranking Republican member and chief staff lawyers, but has not been available to committee members until today.

Now, after months of being kept in the dark about it and other evidence gathered by the impeachment staff, the committee will start considering the case for and against Nixon's impeachment.

The opening of the crucial phase of the inquiry will be marked by a round of speeches in public session, after which the committee will go into executive session to consider evidence bearing on the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said Wednesday the closed sessions probably would continue through next week, after which a decision will be made on opening them.

Another decision facing the committee is what to do about Nixon's refusal to give it any more Watergate material. The committee has subpoenaed tapes of 42 presidential conversations dealing with Watergate and has a request pending for 76 more.

At a Democratic caucus Wednesday there was unanimous support for issuing a new subpoena, but divided opinion on when it should be issued and what it should cover.

The most likely course to be followed was suggested by the senior Republican, Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, at a news conference with Rodino.

Hutchinson said that when gaps appear in the presentation of evidence and Chief Counsel John Doar says they could be filled by material sought from the White House, the committee could decide then whether to request it again.

Hutchinson said that rather than issue a subpoena, he would prefer to negotiate the matter with Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, who will be in the committee room during the presentation.

But the Democrats and Doar appear to prefer a subpoena. Doar said at the news conference the issuance of a subpoena is the orderly, lawful way to proceed.

"It isn't a question of whether we will issue a subpoena, but when," said Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y.

Rodino said the opening phase of the presentation of evidence will be limited to Watergate, one of six areas of presidential conduct the committee is investigating.

Rodino said it probably will be the end of June before the committee is ready to vote on whether grounds exist for impeachment. House Majority Leader Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill said a full House vote on impeachment will take place about Aug. 1.

Nixon Drowns Scandal With Words

WASHINGTON (AP) — After futile efforts to dam up Watergate, the White House apparently is trying now to drown the scandal in a deluge of words.

That's half the strategy. The other half is to stonewall it against further disclosures of White House tape recordings demanded by Congress and the special prosecutor.

Public release of the edited Watergate transcripts, and the series of White House analyses, speeches and comments that have followed, add up to an intensive campaign to get across the President's version of the story.

One assumption in that effort has to be that, however many Americans take the time to read the 1,254 pages of edited conversations about Watergate, almost everybody will know that the President made them public.

In that campaign, the act of releasing the White House transcripts was itself a crucial step, whatever reading they get and whatever construction is put upon their ambiguities. It was unprecedented, and it put the White House in a position to say that the President, by his own decision, had revealed "the whole story of Watergate."

The President and his men are stressing two themes: That the transcripts, for all the scars they may put on Nixon's image, show him innocent of knowledge of Watergate or it's cover-up, and that everything relevant to the case has now been made public.

The key is relevance and the fact is that the White House decided what fits that description.

House impeachment investigators do not agree that the whole story is out. Furthermore, they want to judge for themselves what is relevant, not only in the transcript tapes but in other recordings of White House conversations.

The House Judiciary Committee seeks tape recordings of nearly 150 conversations not covered by the transcripts, involving Watergate and such other issues as dairy cooperative campaign contributions and the ITT antitrust settlement.

The President says he will yield no more on Watergate, but left room for negotiations on evidence in the other areas.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski seeks tapes of 64 presidential conversations, including 20 covered in the edited transcripts.

The Senate Watergate committee, saying it doesn't trust the transcripts, still is battling in court for five Watergate tape recordings—which the others already have.

So while the President has released a pile of transcripts, it is only a fraction of what is being sought. His lawyer, James D. St. Clair, says the demand would be never-ending if Nixon yielded more.

The edited tape transcripts are a book, and a long one. A Washington radio station is broadcasting hour-long, nightly readings of the transcripts—a series that is to continue for 36 nights.

For the White House, one gamble now is public reaction to the sheer volume of what Nixon has disclosed. A crucial question is whether Americans will deem it enough because it is so much, despite the fact that it is not what the House panel or the special prosecutor sought.

There is in addition the question of how Congress and the courts will respond to Nixon's announced intent to withhold further tapes.

And there is another question mark, too: That of public and congressional reaction to the substance of the transcribed conversations Nixon released. The White House maintains that they prove the President "never engaged in a criminal plot to obstruct justice," and carried out his constitutional duty to enforce the law. There is debate about that now between Nixon's critics and his defenders.

Transcripts Bring Mixed Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ray Sauers took up President Nixon's invitation to read the edited transcripts of his private Watergate conversations, which Nixon said "will tell it all."

Sauers, one of the first to buy the blue-volume volume, doesn't think it does. Other first day purchasers think it does.

"It's a survival effort," Sauers concluded Wednesday after reading the critical March 21 conversation when then White House counsel John W. Dean III told Nixon of the full proportions of the Watergate break-in, conspiracy and coverup.

Sauers, 33, a research analyst from Birmingham, Mich., and his 8-year-old daughter, Laurie, were visiting Washington last week when the edited transcripts went on sale at the Government Printing Office bookstore. They were among the first in line when the doors opened at 8 a.m.

"The March 21 conversation convinces me ... hush money to (Watergate burglar) E. Howard Hunt was approved," Sauers said in a telephone interview from his home. "It does no more than re-enforce what I already believed ... These things (transcripts) hurt him."

A check with tourists, businessmen, housewives and lawyers who purchased the instant best-seller the first morning it was on the market indicates that many of them think the conversations raised more questions than they answered; most think the six-pound volume is worth the $12.25 it cost. All have read at least portions of the transcripts. None finished the entire volume.

"I've read some of the significant meetings," said Joshua Davidson, a customs lawyer from New York City who purchased the volume while in Washington on business. "I think I'm in apparent agreement with a good many legislators in Congress who feel it hasn't helped the President one bit. In fact, it's been the reverse."

Tom Gallian, owner of a McDonald's Hamburger franchise in Dunn, N.C., disagrees. He took time off from a Chamber of Commerce convention in Washington last week to pick up several copies of the edited transcripts.

After getting "about half through," he said, "I voted for him (Nixon), and probably would do so again. I think it's a comedy of errors the President got into. I have no conclusions yet whether he's guilty or innocent ... I think he should turn over the tapes ... So he swears a lot? What the hell? We all do."

Mrs. Marjorie Hooper, an English teacher in a Washington high school, said after reading about 400 pages of the transcripts, "I think he (Nixon) warrants impeachment. There was definitely a cover-up after March 21. After he was informed, the whole group entered into a conspiracy to obstruct justice."

"I've been floored by the depravity of the whole situation."

But in any event, even in expurgated version, the transcripts show the seamy side of the Oval Office.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott has described the discussions as shabby, immoral and disgusting. The House GOP leader, Rep. John J. Rhodes, said he wouldn't quarrel with that.

At one point in the transcript for March 21, 1973, Nixon said:

"I don't give a damn about the publicity. We could rock that through if we had to let the whole damn thing hang out, and it would be a lousy story for a month. But I can take it. The point is that I don't want any criminal liabilities. That is the thing that I am concerned about for the members of the White House staff."

That quote may still be operative. But White House concern now is with the battle over impeachment, and that involves the President, not the staff.

OU Strike Arbitration Being Sought

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio University Student Workers Union has voted to submit unsettled details of a union recognition election to arbitration.

Union President Mark Satchwell said he is to contact OU personnel director Ward Wilson today to request that the official obtain an arbitrator from American Arbitration Association.

OU President Claude R. Sowle has said he would agree to arbitration if negotiations came to a "total breakdown."

Wednesday afternoon, the union was presented with a new election proposal which included several modifications of earlier administration plans.

But Satchwell said about 75 union members Wednesday refused to accept requirements that at least 75 per cent of eligible student workers participate to validate the election.

Urge Caution By Glenn

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Democratic nominee to the U.S. Senate, John Glenn, should be wary of the games politicians play—and there's one going on right now, The Lorain Journal cautioned today.

There's talk, The Journal said in an editorial, that U.S. Sen. Howard M. Metzgerbaum, D-Ohio, the man Glenn defeated in Tuesday's primary election, can be persuaded to step aside for the former astronaut.

Glenn could take the Senate seat now, by appointment, and get a headstart over Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, his Republican opponent in the November general election.

"Don't do it, Col. Glenn," the newspaper counseled. "It would be the mistake of your life. That's how politicians play the game. You were elected precisely because the people were fed up with politicians and they trusted you."

Subjects of the 73 new House bill covered a wide range, including a pair by Rep. Jerome P. Stano, D-7 Parma, on highway safety. He proposed the registration of automobile repairmen and mandatory auto inspection in an effort to enhance safer operation of motor vehicles.

Stano was the author of a new state law that prohibits the use of studded snow tires on state highways except during the period between Nov. 15 and March 15.

Other new measures offered in the House covered subjects ranging from hunting and strip mining to a series of measures which in various ways would increase state aid to public education.

Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, proposed in one measure to guarantee all school districts in the state a $75 per pupil increase in their subsidies for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Other proposals would:

—Prohibit the use of public money to provide school busing designed solely to bring about racial balance in the schools.

—Require an adult to accompany and supervise anyone under 18 using a firearm while hunting.

—Appropriate $1.5 million for the Sundry Claims Board for emergency disaster grants to pay damages such as those resulting from the devastating tornadoes in Greene County last month.

—Require a license as well as a presently required permit to engage in strip mining in Ohio.

—Expand Ohio's instructional grant program for needy college students to include those enrolled part time.

Businesses Crack Anti-Inflation Front

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council's heralded anti-inflation commitments from big business appear about to crack unless Congress votes to hold them together.

Ford Motor Co. announced Wednesday price increases averaging $163 for its 1974 autos, and the council said General Motors was planning to follow suit.

The Ford increase was quickly branded by Council Director John T. Dunlop as unwarranted and in violation of Ford's commitment last December not to increase prices further for 1974 models, barring unforeseen major economic events.

A council source said Ford may have blundered in its timing since the announcement could provide additional incentive for Congress to grant the council authority to enforce anti-inflation commitments.

Not Guilty Pleas Set In Zebra Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three men charged with first-degree murder in three Zebra street slayings plan to plead innocent in court today, their lawyer says.

Attorney Clinton White of Oakland said Wednesday his clients also would seek bail when they appear before Municipal Court Judge Agnes O'Brien Smith.

Larry C. Green, 22; J.C. Simon, 29, and Manuel Moore, also 29, were among seven young blacks arrested in police raids May 1 in connection with the string of apparently random murders and assaults of white persons in San Francisco during the last six months.

The other four men were released for lack of evidence.

Thirteen persons have been killed and seven wounded in the Zebra case, given that name from the police radio channel used in the investigation.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto has said he met with an informer during the night of April 28 who told him the slayings and nonfatal attacks on whites were carried out by a murder cult called the Death Angels.

The informer reportedly testified Tuesday night before a grand jury probing the slayings. The jury is expected to conclude its deliberations next Monday.

The broad-based NYSE index gained .22 and stood at 48.75 at noon.

Adoption Authority Clarified

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A county welfare department may not block an adoption proceeding that has the approval of a probate court, Ohio's Supreme Court has ruled.

The unanimous decision came Wednesday in a case involving Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hanna of Ravenna. The Portage County Welfare Department sought to prevent their adoption of a female child it originally placed in their custody Dec. 5, 1969, making them foster parents.

Records showed that in August 1972, the department removed the child from the Hannas' custody and placed her with another set of foster parents, James and Ruby Avery of Akron. The child, Antonette, had been with the Hannas since she was 12 days old.

The Hannas, subsequent to the removal of the child from their home, went into Portage County Probate Court and received approval of their application to adopt the child. The department and the Averages went into court to try to prohibit the adoption.

The Eleventh District Court of Appeals ruled against the Hannas on grounds the probate court lacked jurisdiction. It said state law requires the approval of the certifying agency (the department) in the approval of such an adoption.

However, the Supreme Court reversed the appeals court. Notwithstanding a requirement for the certifying agency to approve, the high court said the department may not act as "final arbiter" and "may not divest the probate court of its original and exclusive jurisdiction over adoption proceedings."

Sharp Quake Jolts Japan; Report Death

TOKYO (AP) — A sharp earthquake jolted central Japan this morning, killing one woman and injuring 23 persons over a wide area of the Izu Peninsula, 70 to 100 miles southwest of Tokyo, officials said.

Twenty-nine persons, caught in a landslide, were still unaccounted for. Police said the quake, which registered four on the Japanese scale of seven in the hard hit areas, destroyed 54 houses, including five in a fire that followed the tremor, and damaged 231.

Scientists in Honolulu said the quake registered 6.2 on the Richter scale. The quake that hit San Francisco in 1906 registered 8.3.

The quake hit shortly after 8:30 a.m. and lasted for several seconds.

The Meteorological Agency said the center was in the Pacific, 22 miles off Cape Irozaki, where it registered five. Seismographs measured four in Shimoda, Mishima and Shizuoka, all on Izu Peninsula, officials said.

The quake also registered four in Yokohama, 20 miles south of Tokyo, and three in Tokyo where buildings swayed and subways and commuter trains were momentarily stopped. No damage, however, was reported in Tokyo or Yokohama.

Police said rains and landslides which blocked roads in Izu were hampering rescue operations.

Officials said 83 aftershocks were recorded in 10 hours and the shocks were continuing.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The trouble with people today is that they want to reach the promised land without going through the wilderness.

Sewer Service Disconnections Being Planned

HEATH, Ohio (AP) — Forest Hills Utility Co. president David Pheils said today he again will attempt to disconnect sewer service in the Forest Hills subdivision of Heath this weekend.

Pheils said a municipal court agreement earlier this week provides that the community's police department will arrest those who interfere with the disconnection if the company only removes lines within 10 feet of the street rights of way.

Earlier attempts at disconnection because of $70,000 in delinquent accounts have been blocked by the subdivision's residents. They charge the company's rates are too high for the service.

Pheils said if the police refuse to arrest protesters, he will file a federal suit against the department.

ART SHOW—The public is invited to view art displays of the Circleville High School art department 5-10 p.m. Friday in conjunction with the band concert and smorgasbord. Art instructor Karen Rose and the four levels of art classes are in final stages of preparation of the art display.

Two Cited For ACDA

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Billy Huffman investigated two accidents Wednesday which resulted in citations.

John E. Brown, 21, Lancaster, was cited for assured clear distance ahead, when he hit a car driven by Michael D. Hulse, 24, 1855 Sioux Drive, 8:25 a.m. Wednesday.

Hulse was driving east on Route 22 attempting to make a left turn onto the Circleville-Stoutsville Road when Brown hit the auto in the rear.

No injuries were reported.

A similar incident occurred 1:35 p.m. Wednesday on State Route 159.

According to the report taken by Deputy Huffman, Thelma Louise Penwell, 39, Tarlton, was traveling north on 159 when she hit the rear of a car driven by Guy W. Hilliard, 73, Route 1, Laurelvale.

Mrs. Penwell was admitted to Berger Hospital for multiple contusions, abrasions and a concussion.

She was cited for assured clear distance ahead.

Priest Backs President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Jesuit priest on President Nixon's staff says the White House Watergate transcripts show that Nixon acted honorably in dealing with a "fetid episode ... a dark footnote on his administration."

Defending his boss against rising criticism from Democrats and Republicans alike, Dr. John McLaughlin said of the President's actions as disclosed by the recently released transcripts:

"The conclusion that they are amoral or immoral is erroneous, unjust and contains elements of hypocrisy."

At a news conference, Father McLaughlin said: "The President acquitted himself throughout these discussions with honor when you consider the circumstances ... the total context ..."

He said Nixon's morality should be judged not by bits and pieces of recorded conversations but by "the extent to which he has produced a climate of charity in the international community and at home."

McLaughlin, who joined the White House staff in 1971 as a speech-writer, now describes himself as "an adviser, factfinder and presidential spokesman."

Man Sentenced To 3 Concurrent Terms

Luther Harris was among those appearing before Judge William Ammer in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Wednesday morning on criminal charges. Harris was found guilty last week by a jury of two counts of aggravated burglary and one count of grand theft. Judge Ammer sentenced him to 6-25 years at the Ohio State Reformatory For Men at Mansfield on each of the two burglary charges and 1-5 years on the theft charge. The court also ordered the three sentences to run concurrently.

Also appearing for sentencing after being convicted of breaking and entering with intent to trespass on the lands of another to commit a felony was William Kuhn, Route 1, Amanda. Kuhn was sentenced to 1-5 years in the Mansfield Reformatory.

Charles Savage was the third man sentenced to Mansfield during Wednesday's proceedings. Savage had been found guilty of breaking and entering.

A motion for shock probation was considered and granted to Dan Dennis. Dennis had been sentenced to the reformatory for issuing a forged prescription to obtain a narcotic drug. The court under the shock probation statute suspended further execution of the sentence and placed him on probation for three years.

Through a negotiated plea, a charge against Dean Davis was reduced to assault and battery. Davis was sentenced to pay a $200 fine and to spend six months in the county jail, the maximum sentence for the offense. The court suspended all of the sentence and placed him on probation for two years.

A negotiated plea of guilty was entered by James Marcum on a misdemeanor charge of issuing a check with insufficient funds. A $200 fine and six-months jail sentence were suspended and he was placed on probation. His attorney informed the court Marcum had made full restitution of $400 for the bad check.

James Chapman, Route 1, who was indicted by the second session of the April Grand Jury appeared with his legal counsel but did not enter a plea to the charge of theft against him.

A motion for reconsideration of sentence of Ed Adams and a hearing for Jerry Hill, Wadsworth, were continued by the court until May 15.

Ashville Chief Makes 36 Arrests

Alva Boyer, Ashville Chief of Police, made 36 arrests Jan. 1 to April 30 with the total fines and costs amounting to $1,259.11.

Twelve accidents also were handled in the village.

Boyer says that traffic will be controlled by radar through the summer months, and advises motorists to drive carefully through the village.

Deaths

MR. PAUL F. WEAVER

Mr. Paul F. Weaver, 56, Route 4, was dead on arrival at Berger Hospital 10 p.m. Wednesday of an apparent heart attack.

Born Sept. 10, 1917 in Ringgold, he was the son of James A. and Elizabeth Binkley Weaver. He was employed at the Circleville DuPont plant.

Mr. Weaver was a veteran of World War II, having served as a lieutenant in the Signal Corps.

He is survived by his widow, Faye McNight Weaver; two daughters, Mrs. Allan (Paula) Sorenson, Prosser, Wash.; Vicki Weaver, Columbus; one son, Keith Weaver, of the home; one sister, Mrs. Claude Wells, 150 Walnut Creek Pike; one brother, William A. Weaver, 139 W. High St.

Service will be 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Mader Funeral Home with Pastor Carl Zehner officiating. Burial will be in Reber Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 1 p.m. Friday.

Sewer Service Disconnections Being Planned

HEATH, Ohio (AP) — Forest Hills Utility Co. president David Phells said today he again will attempt to disconnect sewer service in the Forest Hills subdivision of Heath this weekend.

Phells said a municipal court agreement earlier this week provides that the community's police department will arrest those who interfere with the disconnection if the company only removes lines within 10 feet of the street rights of way.

Earlier attempts at disconnection because of $70,000 in delinquent accounts have been blocked by the subdivision's residents. They charge the company's rates are too high for the service.

Phells said if the police refuse to arrest protesters, he will file a federal suit against the department.

Adoption Authority Clarified

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A county welfare department may not block an adoption proceeding that has the approval of a probate court, Ohio's Supreme Court has ruled.

The unanimous decision came Wednesday in a case involving Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hanna of Ravenna. The Portage County Welfare Department sought to prevent their adoption of a female child it originally placed in their custody Dec. 5, 1969, making them foster parents.

Records showed that in August 1972, the department removed the child from the Hannas' custody and placed her with another set of foster parents, James and Ruby Avery of Akron. The child, Antionette, had been with the Hannas since she was 12 days old.

The Hannas, subsequent to the removal of the child from their home, went into Portage County Probate Court and received approval of their application to adopt the child. The department and the Avers went into court to try to prohibit the adoption.

The Eleventh District Court of Appeals ruled against the Hannas on grounds the probate court lacked jurisdiction. It said state law requires the approval of the certifying agency (the department) in the approval of such an adoption.

However, the Supreme Court reversed the appeals court. Notwithstanding a requirement for the certifying agency to approve, the high court said the department may not act as "final arbiter" and "may not divest the probate court of its original and exclusive jurisdiction over adoption proceedings."

Sharp Quake Jolts Japan; Report Death

TOKYO (AP) — A sharp earthquake jolted central Japan this morning, killing one woman and injuring 23 persons over a wide area of the Izu Peninsula, 70 to 100 miles southwest of Tokyo, officials said.

Twenty-nine persons, caught in a landslide, were still unaccounted for. Police said the quake, which registered four on the Japanese scale of seven in the hard hit areas, destroyed 54 houses, including five in a fire that followed the tremor, and damaged 231.

Scientists in Honolulu said the quake registered 6.2 on the Richter scale. The quake that hit San Francisco in 1906 registered 8.3.

The quake hit shortly after 8:30 a.m. and lasted for several seconds.

The Meteorological Agency said the center was in the Pacific, 22 miles off Cape Irozaki, where it registered five. Seismographs measured four in Shimoda, Mishima and Shizuoka, all on Izu Peninsula, officials said.

The quake also registered four in Yokohama, 20 miles south of Tokyo, and three in Tokyo where buildings swayed and subways and commuter trains were momentarily stopped. No damage, however, was reported in Tokyo or Yokohama.

Police said rains and landslides which blocked roads in Izu were hampering rescue operations.

Officials said 83 aftershocks were recorded in 10 hours and the shocks were continuing.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Billy Huffman investigated two accidents Wednesday which resulted in citations.

John E. Brown, 21, Lancaster, was cited for assured clear distance ahead, when he hit a car driven by Michael D. Hulse, 24, 1855 Sioux Drive, 8:25 a.m. Wednesday.

Hulse was driving east on Route 22 attempting to make a left turn onto the Circleville-Stoutsville Road when Brown hit the auto in the rear.

No injuries were reported.

A similar incident occurred 1:35 p.m. Wednesday on State Route 159.

According to the report taken by Deputy Huffman, Thelma Louise Penwell, 39, Tarlton, was traveling north on 159 when she hit the rear of a car driven by Guy W. Hilliard, 73, Route 1, Laurelville.

Mrs. Penwell was admitted to Berger Hospital for multiple contusions, abrasions and a concussion.

She was cited for assured clear distance ahead.

Priest Backs President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Jesuit priest on President Nixon's staff says the White House Watergate transcripts show that Nixon acted honorably in dealing with a "fictitious episode ... a dark footnote on his administration."

Defending his boss against rising criticism from Democrats and Republicans alike, Dr. John McLaughlin said of the President's actions as disclosed by the recently released transcripts:

"The conclusion that they are amoral or immoral is erroneous, unjust and contains elements of hypocrisy."

At a news conference, Father McLaughlin said: "The President acquitted himself throughout these discussions with honor when you consider the circumstances ... the total context ..."

He said Nixon's morality should be judged not by bits and pieces of recorded conversations but by "the extent to which he has produced a climate of charity in the international community and at home."

McLaughlin, who joined the White House staff in 1971 as a speech-writer, now describes himself as "an adviser, factfinder and presidential spokesman."

Dear Abby:

Jane Makes Three

DEAR ABBY: My freind Jane and I work together. She and her husband and my husband and I had been close for years. Two years ago, Jane's husband died suddenly, and we were all shocked and deeply grieved.

My husband and I tried to make life easier for Jane. We invited her over and took her places with us so she wouldn't be alone. Her other friends had her for dinner once and that was the end of it.

It's going on the third year now and I think it's time Jane started to try to make a new life for herself. It's gotten so that she expects us to include her in everything. If we don't, she is hurt, and lets us know.

She and my husband and I are a regular threesome. And who do you think gets all the attention? Jane does. My husband pulls out her chair and helps her with her coat and I have to look after myself.

I mentioned this to my husband once and he said: "Why, you're jealous!"

How can I remedy this situation without hurting anyone? I don't know how much longer I can hide my feelings.

THIRD WHEEL

DEAR WHEEL: Why hide them? Tell your husband: "You're darned tootin' I'm jealous!" Enough is enough. Discontinue the threesome. Dig up a single man for Jane, or ask her to find one, but let her know that three is an unlucky number.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old male with an unusual problem. I've worked for the company for six years and have a good relationship with my boss, who is president and owner of the company. The problem is the boss's daughter who also works here. She is very friendly to me, and every chance she gets, she straightens my ties or gives me a little hug. This girl is very attractive and I find it difficult to get my work done when she's around.

Last week, while I was standing at the copy machine, she came up behind me and put her hands in my pocket to make change for a soft drink.

I don't want to offend the boss's daughter, but I can't reciprocate her friendly gestures, so what do I do?

BOTHERED IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR BOTHERED: You poor kid! Pretend she is just another girl in the steno pool. Why should she be penalized because she's the boss's daughter?

DEAR ABBY: For years I've been reading about women who use the excuse that they're too "tired" to get out of having marital relations with their husbands.

My husband and I are both in our early 30s. We've always had enjoyable sex relations until the last five or six years. Now that I'm the mother of three small children, by the end of the day, I am so exhausted, the last thing I want to think about is sex.

Husbands don't realize how tiring it is to keep house, do the laundry, cooking, and care for three children under six years old. When my husband comes home, his days work is finished and he can relax. My work goes on 24 hours a day. Where does justice lie?

Is it hard to understand that a wife loses interest in being a sex partner when her children are small and demand so much of her time and energy? My husband still thinks I'm making excuses when I'm too tired at night. This can't be an original complaint. What do other young wives do?

IN LOVE WITH THE SANDMAN

DEAR IN: Your children will leave you one day, and unless you change your husband may leave before they do! Why not get a woman, or a schoolgirl, to come in for a few hours to give you a lift? Don't let yourself get exhausted and out of sorts. If a wife stops being a wife-her husband starts finding excuses not to come home. Think about it.

Ferguson Fights Abortion Outlays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson remains steadfast in his refusal to approve payments for abortions performed on welfare patients.

Hundreds of vouchers—reportedly totaling more than $100,000—have been held up in Ferguson's office. The peppery 81-year-old auditor, a devout Catholic, said he will carry his fight to the U.S. Supreme Court if he is challenged in court.

The veteran state official claims abortions are murder and that the state will not be "subsidizing crime" if he can help it.

Ohio's Department of Public Welfare began paying for welfare patient abortions last August after a U.S. Supreme Court decision wiped out the state's anti-abortion law.

Welfare officials estimate the state

paid out about $1 million for abortions at about $150 each before the auditor cut off payments.

Ferguson, who is retiring at the end of the year, is not alone in his position.

A bill approved by the House and pending in the Senate, giving the state a new abortion control law, provides that public funds may not be used to pay for welfare client abortions unless they are necessary to preserve the mental health or life of the mother.

Substantially rewritten and approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee, the bill is expected to be brought to a floor vote when the legislature returns to work after today's election.

The Senate version then would go back to the House for consideration of Senate changes.

Senate sponsors, including Sen. Robert J. Cortis, R-13 Ellyria, maintain most welfare patients would be able to find physicians who would affirm the necessity of an abortion to preserve mental health or life as the bill requires.

Not everyone agrees. Benson Wolman, executive director of the Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, maintains the provision runs afoul of constitutional guarantees of equal treatment under the law.

Most of the 10 blacks in the General Assembly say they don't like the provision because it would have the effect of depriving poor people of the right to have an abortion because they were unable to pay.

Wolman contends the proposal probably is unconstitutional in two areas other than the welfare provision. The areas he pointed out would require consent of parents for an abortion on an unmarried minor and would permit hospitals to refuse to perform abortions as a matter of policy.

New Divorce Law In Effect For Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Married people now may obtain a divorce in Ohio for the sole reason they have not lived together for two or more years.

Ohio's new "no-fault" divorce law which went into effect Tuesday also provides that a divorce can be granted if both parties are guilty of one or more stipulated grounds.

Before Tuesday, divorces could only be granted, technically, when one party was guilty of at least one of the offenses.

"It is neither practical nor realistic to expect in every divorce situation that one party be wholly free from fault to obtain relief in the courts," said Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, sponsor of the reform bill.

He said the law, passed by the legislature in February, repeals the "archaic doctrine of recrimination."

The bill has been called "nofault" because of the new grounds for divorce it creates.

"It is a recognition that when a couple have lived separate and apart for this period (two years), no marriage exists in fact, even though it is required to continue in law," Gillmor said.

Gillmor said many Ohio residents have gone to other states to obtain divorces because of the old law.

This created hardships because the couples still had to return to Ohio to unravel problems with respect to alimony, division of property and custody of children, he noted.

Other grounds remaining in effect are adultery, impotency, extreme cruelty, gross neglect of duty, drunkenness, imprisonment of the party not filing for the divorce or a divorce being granted to the other party in another state.

My husband and I tried to make life easier for Jane. We invited her over and took her places with us so she wouldn't be alone. Her other friends had her for dinner once and that was the end of it.

It's going on the third year now and I think it's time Jane started to try to make a new life for herself. It's gotten so that she expects us to include her in everything. If we don't, she is hurt, and lets us know.

She and my husband and I are a regular threesome. And who do you think gets all the attention? Jane does. My husband pulls out her chair and

New Divorce Law In Effect For Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Married people now may obtain a divorce in Ohio for the sole reason they have not lived together for two or more years.

Ohio's new "no-fault" divorce law which went into effect Tuesday also provides that a divorce can be granted if both parties are guilty of one or more stipulated grounds.

Before Tuesday, divorces could only be granted, technically, when one party was guilty of at least one of the offenses.

"It is neither practical nor realistic to expect in every divorce situation that one party be wholly free from fault to obtain relief in the courts," said Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, sponsor of the reform bill.

He said the law, passed by the legislature in February, repeals the "archaic doctrine of recrimination."

The bill has been called "nofault" because of the new grounds for divorce it creates.

"It is a recognition that when a couple have lived separate and apart for this period (two years), no marriage exists in fact, even though it is required to continue in law," Gillmor said.

Gillmor said many Ohio residents have gone to other states to obtain divorces because of the old law.

This created hardships because the couples still had to return to Ohio to unravel problems with respect to alimony, division of property and custody of children, he noted.

helps her with her coat and I have to look after myself.

I mentioned this to my husband once and he said: "Why, you're jealous!" How can I remedy this situation without hurting anyone? I don't know how much longer I can hide my feelings.

THIRD WHEEL

DEAR WHEEL: Why hide them? Tell your husband: "You're darned tootin' I'm jealous!" Enough is enough. Discontinue the threesome. Dig up a single man for Jane, or ask her to find one, but let her know that three is an unlucky number.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old male with an unusual problem. I've worked for the company for six years and have a good relationship with my boss, who is president and owner of the company. The problem is the boss's daughter who also works here. She is very friendly to me, and every chance she gets, she straightens my ties or gives me a little hug. This girl is very attractive and I find it difficult to get my work done when she's around.

Last week, while I was standing at the copy machine, she came up behind me and put her hands in my pocket to make change for a soft drink.

I don't want to offend the boss's daughter, but I can't reciprocate her friendly gestures, so what do I do?

BOTHERED IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR BOTHERED: You poor kid! Pretend she is just another girl in the steno pool. Why should she be penalized because she's the boss's daughter?

DEAR ABBY: For years I've been reading about women who use the excuse that they're too "tired" to get out of having marital relations with their husbands.

My husband and I are both in our early 30s. We've always had enjoyable sex relations until the last five or six years. Now that I'm the mother of three small children, by the end of the day, I am so exhausted, the last thing I want to think about is sex.

Husbands don't realize how tiring it is to keep house, do the laundry, cooking, and care for three children under six years old. When my husband comes home, his days work is finished and he can relax. My work goes on 24 hours a day. Where does justice lie?

Is it hard to understand that a wife loses interest in being a sex partner when her children are small and demand so much of her time and energy? My husband still thinks I'm making excuses when I'm too tired at night. This can't be an original complaint. What do other young wives do?

IN LOVE WITH THE SANDMAN

DEAR IN: Your children will leave you one day, and unless you change your husband may leave before they do! Why not get a woman, or a schoolgirl, to come in for a few hours to give you a lift? Don't let yourself get exhausted and out of sorts. If a wife stops being a wife her husband starts finding excuses not to come home. Think about it.

Ferguson Fights Abortion Outlays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson remains steadfast in his refusal to approve payments for abortions performed on welfare patients.

Hundreds of vouchers—reportedly totaling more than $100,000—have been held up in Ferguson's office. The peppery 81-year-old auditor, a devout Catholic, said he will carry his fight to the U.S. Supreme Court if he is challenged in court.

The veteran state official claims abortions are murder and that the state will not be "subsidizing crime" if he can help it.

Ohio's Department of Public Welfare began paying for welfare patient abortions last August after a U.S. Supreme Court decision wiped out the state's anti-abortion law.

Welfare officials estimate the state

Kills Mental Patient

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A 16-year-old patient at Longview State Hospital was killed Wednesday in an elevator accident at the mental facility.

Police said John Clifford Bailey, leaned into an elevator shaft to see if an elevator was coming down. The car struck him on the head. Bailey was on a work detail at the time.

paid out about $1 million for abortions at about $150 each before the auditor cut off payments.

Ferguson, who is retiring at the end of the year, is not alone in his position.

A bill approved by the House and pending in the Senate, giving the state a new abortion control law, provides that public funds may not be used to pay for welfare client abortions unless they are necessary to preserve the mental health or life of the mother.

Substantially rewritten and approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee, the bill is expected to be brought to a floor vote when the legislature returns to work after today's election.

The Senate version then would go back to the House for consideration of Senate changes.

Senate sponsors, including Sen. Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria, maintain most welfare patients would be able to find physicians who would affirm the necessity of an abortion to preserve mental health or life as the bill requires.

Not everyone agrees. Benson Wolman, executive director of the Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, maintains the provision runs afoul of constitutional guarantees of equal treatment under the law.

Most of the 10 blacks in the General Assembly say they don't like the provision because it would have the effect of depriving poor people of the right to have an abortion because they were unable to pay.

Wolman contends the proposal probably is unconstitutional in two areas other than the welfare provision. The areas he pointed out would require consent of parents for an abortion on an unmarried minor and would permit hospitals to refuse to perform abortions as a matter of policy.

Return Of An Image

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Babe Ruth, who died in 1948, has set another record. He is the first ballplayer who has gained new fame and admiration by having his proudest record broken. When Hank Aaron neared and then topped Babe's lifetime total of 714 home runs, he did the Babe a favor. He dusted off the prodigious image of the greatest all-round baseball player of all time.

Two or three new books about Babe are in the works. Babe Ruth Baseball, the post-grad Little League, is having its best season — 1,600 leagues, 290,000 players in two divisions, 13-to-15 years old and 16-to-18. Their world series will be played next summer at Abbeville, La., and Mattoon, Ill., respectively. The limited edition of the Tribute to the Babe Commemorative medallion, minted by the Medallic Art Company of Danbury, Conn., promises to be unlimited. Lefty Gomez, who knew the Great Man as few others did, is chairman of the newly reactivated Babe Ruth Foundation, which will distribute scholarships to deserving young men. The foundation was formed before Babe died by the late Paul Carey and Melvyn Gordon Lowenstein, Babe's counselor and counselor. It lapsed after Babe's death, as did, in fact, the memory of the Babe himself. It is a part of human nature that nobody sends in contributions to or worries about the permanency of the Washington Monument or the Statue of Liberty or the heads on Mt. Rushmore. But if anybody tried to mess around with any of these institutions, we'd all be up in arms.

Thus it was with that other national shrine, the Babe's 714. This is not to suggest that Henry Aaron, a gentle man, is a vandal. This is not to say thanks to him for reminding a lot of us that once there lived an incredible athlete unlike any other and that those of us who were lucky enough to know him were, well, BLESSED.

Col. Tony Story, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's pilot and aide, and Dick Case, international president of Babe Ruth Baseball, were kind enough to steer me to Lefty Gomez the other day at the New York Hilton. The great Yankee southpaw, who was in New York to present a medallion to Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, is as trim as he was when piling up records of his own with his flaming fast ball and exotic stuff. And as lively.

"Tony Lazzeri was kind of my godfather and the godfather of other young ballplayers the Yankees brought up from the San Francisco Bay area," Gomez reminisced over a club soda, no small feat. "He briefed me and the other young pitchers on

One of the most damaging of the criticisms is the study by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare which found 4.8 per cent of students studied across the land were illiterate. If that percentage holds up nationally, one million children aged 12 to 17 cannot read at a fourth-grade level.

The results of the four-year survey obviously caught HEW researchers by surprise. The head of the government's "Right to Read" program described the findings "alarming and discouraging." The National Center for Health Statistics, a division of HEW, said current government definitions of literacy "might lead to serious underestimates" of the situation.

Critics formerly pointed their fingers at the variety, or curriculum rigidity or discipline problems as trouble spots. More recently, competency in the basic education tools of reading, comprehension and mathematics has come under fire. Now literacy.

Certainly if large segments of the school population are failing even minimal standards in these areas, parents, taxpayers and educators have an obligation to ask, just what are the schools teaching?

how to pitch to Babe in batting practice. Tony told us, 'Just lay it in there to him. He won't hit it back at you and kill you. But for God's sake don't hit him. If you do, you'll be on your way home.'

"Babe called me 'Kid,' even after I became a 20-game winner. One day in the locker room he looked at me, like he had seen me someplace before, and said, 'Hey, Kid, you pitching today?' I said yes, and Babe said, 'Try to hold them to four or five runs, Kid, and we'll win one.'"

Lefty and his wife, the former June O'Dea, accompanied the Ruths to Japan after the end of the 1934 season, and then around the world.

"I can't describe what a world figure he was," Lefty said. "The Japanese really worshipped him, mobbed him wherever he went. But people knew him elsewhere, too. Our team was booked into Manila for six games, for instance. All of us went to our rooms in the old Manila Hotel except Babe. The manager held him in the lobby until he moved the occupant out of the penthouse suite, to make way for Babe. The occupant was Douglas MacArthur."

"I have a hotel story about the Babe, too," Col. Story told Lefty. "When the general flew into Tokyo after the surrender and put up at what had been our embassy there, one of my jobs was to find him a hotel suite downtown in case he had to be in that area. I went to the best hotel I could find. It wasn't a very relaxed job. We still didn't know how the Japanese were going to accept us, if they did at all. So I guess I pushed my weight around with the manager and finally he showed me to a suite that had the Emperor's insignia on its door. I followed him into it and there — big as life — was a photo of the Babe. I thought it was a fix; that the guy had pulled it out of the basement and hung it up just in time. And I said so, No, he said, it had hung here all through the war and the bombing.

"I didn't believe him. So I walked over to it and ran my finger across the top of the frame and along the wire on the back of the picture. Both were filled with dust . . . years of dust."

"Babe could always give out with a thrill, to the fans and the players, too," Lefty said. "Even when he was big as a house, he'd steal a base we needed and we'd win because of that steal. In barnstorming after the season, The Bustin' Babes against the Larrupin' Lous, he and Lou (Gehrig) would give batting exhibitions. They'd each hit maybe 40 or 50 balls over the fence. Only God knows how many home runs Babe hit."

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Earlier this year the National Small Business Association presented congressmen with its view that small and medium-size businesses must be permitted a bigger share in the American economy.

The big three of big business, big government and big labor, the association's spokesmen asserted, ruled the land, formulating a national economic policy that:

"... discourages, handicaps, squeezes, and often destroys small business. Their actions are counterproductive, incestuous, and self-serving in nature. As a result, only the 'scraps on the table' are left for everyone else."

The injustice is clear, they claimed, in the areas of taxes, access to market and money raising — "would any fair-minded person say that equality of treatment is given to the would-be entrepreneur versus the economic power of an ITT although both want to enter the same field?"

But the impact of the small business report to Congress really lies in pointing out the de facto situation. Here are some excerpts:

—In 270 of 413 manufacturing industries — that is, in 65 per cent of the industries for which figures are available — the eight largest companies account for 40 per cent or more of the value of shipments from their industry.

—In 1960, small and medium manufacturers had 50 per cent of the assets and 41 per cent of profits. By 1972 these corporations had only 30 per cent of assets, and 28 per cent of profits.

Citing Census Bureau figures, the association listed the percentage of shipments accounted for by the eight largest concerns in selected industries, based again on 1967 or 1970 figures.

Here are a few:

Cereal preparations, 97 per cent, chocolate and cocoa products, 90; chewing gum, 97; cigarettes, 100; woven carpets and rugs; 90; tire cord and fabric, 97; carbon black, 100; flag glass, 98; primary aluminum, 100; typewriters 99.

"By what accident or plan did we come to the point where a handful of giant companies can determine what foods will come to our tables and what that food will contain, and what it will cost?" the association asked.

And that's the question—not whether small business provides more variety, competitiveness and innovation, or whether big business produces sameness, administered markets and the status quo.

Is the country drifting into an era of superbiz business, evading a decision and dealing with the event after the fact rather than attempting to influence its course?

Rather than drifting, is it being taken along a prescribed course by existing businesses that seek their own preservation rather than the overall good of the country?

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A few years ago our children were not allowed to enter school unless they were vaccinated. I now hear that this is no longer necessary. Is this true and why?

Mrs. V. P., N.J.

Dear Mrs. P.:

I assume that you are referring to vaccination against smallpox. There has been a distinct change in attitude in recent years about the need for this vaccination. This is because the disease is considered to be wiped out.

Public Health officials at this time no longer require evidence of vaccination for readmittance to the United States after foreign travel.

The safety record is apparently so great that some states may not require vaccination for entrance to schools.

If you are referring to protection against diphtheria, whooping cough, measles, German measles, tetanus, and polio there may not be a legal requirement, but certainly children deserve the protection from all of these diseases.

A single loss of life, anywhere in the world, because of inadequate protection is a tragedy that must be avoided.

When should a hot water bottle be used rather than an ice bag for stomach pains?

Mrs. E. E., Ga.

Dear Mrs. E.:

Many people refer to "stomach pains" when they really mean "abdominal pains." You apparently are concerned with pains in the abdomen.

Pains, cramps and spasms are usually unimportant. Occasionally, however, these pains, cramps and spasms may be symptoms of more serious underlying conditions.

For this reason there is no universal rule about the choice of hot or cold applications. For example, the simple, easily recognized pain of menstrual cramps can benefit from heat.

A cyst on the ovary or an attack of appendicitis may, on the other hand, definitely be harmed by heat.

Persistent abdominal pain associated with nausea, vomiting and diarrhea should not be treated by home remedies of any kind. Enemas can convert a simple problem into a complicated one.

The character, the intensity, and the distribution of pain is of extreme diagnostic importance to the doctor. Both hot and cold can mask or hide pain and give a false sense of security in some abdominal disorders.

Swerping Being Blamed For Gaps In Nixon Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — At last, an explanation for some of those "inaudible" and "unintelligible" gaps in the White House transcripts of President Nixon's Watergate conversations.

Swerping caused them.

Swerping?

According to White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt, swerping is the noise on the tape during the time it takes an automatic recorder to start and get to recording speed.

The White House taping system was actuated by sound. The microphones pick up a noise—a voice, a slamming door, a clock ticking loudly—and the reels begin to turn.

Buzhardt is a lawyer, not an audio specialist, but he was one of the first and one of the few to listen to the tapes.

He offered his explanation in an

See Rubber Auto Fronts Coming Soon

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—It's what's up front that counts, even in new-car bodies, a Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. executive said Wednesday.

Weight, corrosion and damage in minor collisions may drive auto manufacturers to turn to rubber for bumpers, rocker panels and maybe even fenders and door panels, Vice Chairman Richard A. Jay said.

"Petroleum shortages are making auto makers into fanatical weight watchers," Jay said. "Gasoline mileage will become a major selling point on new models."

Lightweight, rubbery materials can add to a car's life by resisting rust while saving on high repair costs by minimizing damage in minor collisions, Jay said.

A block of rubber is the impact-absorbing heart of one of the simplest and most reliable bumpers already in use, he said.

"Although a short-term scarcity of petrochemicals is affecting a portion of the plastics industry, feedstocks are expected to be adequate for both rubber and urethane, the prime candidates for auto body use," he said.

Decline To Probe Police Department

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Attorney General's office has declined to investigate the police department in Monroe.

Butler County Prosecutor John Holcomb had made the request two weeks ago, charging political influence in the five-man police department.

interview with Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.

"Probably the most predominant cause of inaudible or unintelligible is the voice actuator system on which the system operates," he said. "When there is a hesitation or interruption in speech the gain (volume) control usually moves from the lowest point of sensitivity to the highest point of sensitivity."

Still with us?

"At the same time the tape reels, which have stopped turning with the interruption, then accelerate and pick up to playing speed. The combination of the gain control movement plus the acceleration of the tape through the recorder produces a swerping noise which normally obscures the first few syllables spoken after the interruption of speech."

Buzhardt also said that there is a relationship between how deep the voice is and the fidelity of the recording. The lower the voice, the more distortion.

He said the President has a lower voice than John W. Dean III and therefore the former White House counsel comes through more clearly.

Dean, he said, has a higher-pitched, rather flat tone of speech.

"The President has, relatively speaking, a more bass voice than does Mr. Dean," Buzhardt added. "I guess Mr. (John N.) Mitchell has the basest of the voices in any of the tapes that were recorded and he is almost impossible to hear on the recordings."

For the record, it should be noted that there are about 1,670 portions claimed by White House transcribers to be inaudible or unintelligible. In 1,075 of them the President was speaking.

There is no count yet on how many were caused by swerping.

Hoffa Wife, Son Lose Union Posts

DETROIT (AP) — The wife and son of former Teamsters President Jimmy Hoffa have lost their jobs with the union. Teamsters sources differed on whether it was a purge designed to stop Hoffa's comeback campaign.

The Teamsters International Executive Board, in voting to terminate the services of attorneys on retainer, in effect fired James P. Hoffa Jr., from his $30,000-a-year job.

In another action at its meeting last week in Dallas, the board voted to abolish the women's auxiliary of DRIVE, the union's political arm. Josephine Hoffa headed the auxiliary at an annual salary of $48,000, a union spokesman said in Washington.

One of the most damaging of the criticisms is the study by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare which found 4.8 per cent of students studied across the land were illiterate. If that percentage holds up nationally, one million children aged 12 to 17 cannot read at a fourth-grade level.

The results of the four-year survey obviously caught HEW researchers by surprise. The head of the government's "Right to Read" program described the findings "alarming and discouraging." The National Center for Health Statistics, a division of HEW, said current government definitions of literacy "might lead to serious underestimates" of the situation.

Critics formerly pointed their fingers at the variety, or curriculum rigidity or discipline problems as trouble spots. More recently, competency in the basic education tools of reading, comprehension and mathematics has come under fire. Now literacy.

Certainly if large segments of the school population are failing even minimal standards in these areas, parents, taxpayers and educators have an obligation to ask, just what are the schools teaching?

Return Of An Image

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Babe Ruth, who died in 1948, has set another record. He is the first ballplayer who has gained new fame and admiration by having his proudest record broken. When Hank Aaron neared and then topped Babe's lifetime total of 714 home runs, he did the Babe a favor. He dusted off the prodigious image of the greatest all-around baseball player of all time.

Two or three new books about Babe are in the works. Babe Ruth Baseball, the post-grad Little League, is having its best season—1,600 leagues, 290,000 players in two divisions, 13-to-15 years old and 16-to-18. Their world series will be played next summer at Abbeville, La., and Mattoon, Ill., respectively. The limited edition of the Tribute to the Babe Commemorative medallion, minted by the Medallic Art Company of Danbury, Conn., promises to be unlimited. Lefty Gomez, who knew the Great Man as few others did, is chairman of the newly reactivated Babe Ruth Foundation, which will distribute scholarships to deserving young men. The foundation was formed before Babe died by the late Paul Carey and Melvyn Gordon Lowenstein, Babe's counselor and counselor. It lapsed after Babe's death, as did, in fact, the memory of the Babe himself. It is a part of human nature that nobody sends in contributions to or worries about the permanency of the Washington Monument or the Statue of Liberty or the heads on Mt. Rushmore. But if anybody tried to mess around with any of these institutions, we'd all be up in arms.

Thus it was with that other national shrine, the Babe's 714. This is not to suggest that Henry Aaron, a gentle man, is a vandal. This is not to say thanks to him for reminding a lot of us that once there lived an incredible athlete unlike any other and that those of us who were lucky enough to know him were, well, BLESSED.

Col. Tony Story, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's pilot and aide, and Dick Case, international president of Babe Ruth Baseball, were kind enough to steer me to Lefty Gomez the other day at the New York Hilton. The great Yankee southpaw, who was in New York to present a medallion to Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, is as trim as he was when piling up records of his own with his flaming fast ball and exotic stuff. And as lively.

"Tony Lazzari was kind of my godfather and the godfather of other young ballplayers the Yankees brought up from the San Francisco Bay area," Gomez reminisced over a club soda, no small feat. "He briefed me and the other young pitchers on how to pitch to Babe in batting practice. Tony told us, 'Just lay it in there to him. He won't hit it back at you and kill you. But for God's sake don't hit him. If you do, you'll be on your way home.'

"Babe called me 'Kid,' even after I became a 20-game winner. One day in the locker room he looked at me, like he had seen me somewhere before, and said, 'Hey, Kid, you pitching today?' I said yes, and Babe said, 'Try to hold them to four or five runs, Kid, and we'll win one.'

Lefty and his wife, the former June O'Dea, accompanied the Ruths to Japan after the end of the 1934 season, and then around the world.

"I can't describe what a world figure he was," Lefty said. "The Japanese really worshipped him, mobbed him wherever he went. But people knew him elsewhere, too. Our team was booked into Manila for six games, for instance. All of us went to our rooms in the old Manila Hotel except Babe. The manager held him in the lobby until he moved the occupant out of the penthouse suite, to make way for Babe. The occupant was Douglas MacArthur."

"I have a hotel story about the Babe, too," Col. Story told Lefty. "When the general flew into Tokyo after the surrender and put up at what had been our embassy there, one of my jobs was to find him a hotel suite downtown in case he had to be in that area. I went to the best hotel I could find. It wasn't a very relaxed job. We still didn't know how the Japanese were going to accept us, if they did at all. So I guess I pushed my weight around with the manager and finally he showed me to a suite that had the Emperor's insignia on its door. I followed him into it and there—big as life—was a photo of the Babe. I thought it was a fix; that the guy had pulled it out of the basement and hung it up just in time. And I said so, No, he said, it had hung here all through the war and the bombing.

"I didn't believe him. So I walked over to it and ran my finger across the top of the frame and along the wire on the back of the picture. Both were filled with dust... years of dust."

"Babe could always give out with a thrill, to the fans and the players, too," Lefty said. "Even when he was big as a house, he'd steal a base we needed and we'd win because of that steal. In barnstorming after the season, The Hustin' Babes against the Larrupin' Lous, he and Lou (Gehrig) would give batting exhibitions. They'd each hit maybe 40 or 50 balls over the fence. Only God knows how many home runs Babe hit."

Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Earlier this year the National Small Business Association presented congressmen with its view that small and medium-size businesses must be permitted a bigger share in the American economy.

The big three of big business, big government and big labor, the association's spokesmen asserted, ruled the land, formulating a national economic policy that:

"... discourages, handicaps, squeezes, and often destroys small business. Their actions are counterproductive, incestuous, and self-serving in nature. As a result, only the 'scraps on the table' are left for everyone else."

The injustice is clear, they claimed, in the areas of taxes, access to market and money raising — "would any fair-minded person say that equality of treatment is given to the would-be entrepreneur versus the economic power of an ITT although both want to enter the same field?"

But the impact of the small business report to Congress really lies in pointing out the de facto situation. Here are some excerpts:

—In 270 of 413 manufacturing industries—that is, in 65 per cent of the industries for which figures are available—the eight largest companies account for 40 per cent or more of the value of shipments from their industry.

—In 1960, small and medium manufacturers had 50 per cent of the assets and 41 per cent of profits. By 1972 these corporations had only 30 per cent of assets, and 28 per cent of profits.

Citing Census Bureau figures, the association listed the percentage of shipments accounted for by the eight largest concerns in selected industries, based again on 1967 or 1970 figures.

Here are a few:

Cereal preparations, 97 per cent, chocolate and cocoa products, 90; chewing gum, 97; cigarettes, 100; woven carpets and rugs, 90; tire cord and fabric, 97; carbon black, 100; flag glass, 98; primary aluminum, 100; typewriters 99.

"By what accident or plan did we come to the point where a handful of giant companies can determine what foods will come to our tables and what that food will contain, and what it will cost?" the association asked.

And that's the question—not whether small business provides more variety, competitiveness and innovation, or whether big business produces sameness, administered markets and the status quo.

Is the country drifting into an era of superbig business, evading a decision and dealing with the event after the fact rather than attempting to influence its course?

Rather than drifting, is it being taken along a prescribed course by existing businesses that seek their own preservation rather than the overall good of the country?

Boa Constrictor Stolen From Store

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Pet store operator Greg Stewart decided Wednesday that "Pink" was not hiding and reported the 3½-foot boa constrictor had apparently been stolen. Stewart said the snake—a rare pink boa—and his 35-gallon tank have been gone for about a month.

"Pink doesn't have the nicest disposition in the world," said Stewart. "He tends to snap at people," but only in defense.

Boas only go after things they think they can swallow, Stewart added.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A few years ago our children were not allowed to enter school unless they were vaccinated. I now hear that this is no longer necessary. Is this true and why?

Mrs. V. P., N.J.

Dear Mrs. P.:

I assume that you are referring to vaccination against smallpox. There has been a distinct change in attitude in recent years about the need for this vaccination. This is because the disease is considered to be wiped out.

Public Health officials at this time no longer require evidence of vaccination for readmittance to the United States after foreign travel.

The safety record is apparently so great that some states may not require vaccination for entrance to schools.

If you are referring to protection against diphtheria, whooping cough, measles, German measles, tetanus, and polio there may not be a legal requirement, but certainly children deserve the protection from all of these diseases.

A single loss of life, anywhere in the world, because of inadequate protection is a tragedy that must be avoided.

Swerving Being Blamed For Gaps In Nixon Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — At last, an explanation for some of those "inaudible" and "unintelligible" gaps in the White House transcripts of President Nixon's Watergate conversations. Swerving caused them.

Swerving? According to White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt, swerving is the noise on the tape during the time it takes an automatic recorder to start and get to recording speed.

The White House taping system was actuated by sound. The microphones pick up a noise—a voice, a slamming door, a clock ticking loudly—and the reels begin to turn.

Buzhardt is a lawyer, not an audio specialist, but he was one of the first and one of the few to listen to the tapes. He offered his explanation in an

See Rubber Auto Fronts Coming Soon

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—It's what's up front that counts, even in new-car bodies, a Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. executive said Wednesday.

Weight, corrosion and damage in minor collisions may drive auto manufacturers to turn to rubber for bumpers, rocker panels and maybe even fenders and door panels, Vice Chairman Richard A. Jay said.

"Petroleum shortages are making auto makers into fanatical weight watchers," Jay said. "Gasoline mileage will become a major selling point on new models."

Lightweight, rubbery materials can add to a car's life by resisting rust while saving on high repair costs by minimizing damage in minor collisions, Jay said.

A block of rubber is the impact-absorbing heart of one of the simplest and most reliable bumpers already in use, he said.

"Although a short-term scarcity of petrochemicals is affecting a portion of the plastics industry, feedstocks are expected to be adequate for both rubber and urethane, the prime candidates for auto body use," he said.

Decline To Probe Police Department

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Attorney General's office has declined to investigate the police department in Monroe.

Butler County Prosecutor John Holcomb had made the request two weeks ago, charging political influence in the five-man police department.

used rather than an ice bag for stomach pains?

Mrs. E. E., Ga.

Dear Mrs. E.:

Many people refer to "stomach pains" when they really mean "abdominal pains." You apparently are concerned with pains in the abdomen. Pains, cramps and spasms are usually unimportant. Occasionally, however, these pains, cramps and spasms may be symptoms of more serious underlying conditions.

For this reason there is no universal rule about the choice of hot or cold applications. For example, the simple, easily recognized pain of menstrual cramps can benefit from heat.

A cyst on the ovary or an attack of appendicitis may, on the other hand, definitely be harmed by heat.

Persistent abdominal pain associated with nausea, vomiting and diarrhea should not be treated by home remedies of any kind. Enemas can convert a simple problem into a complicated one.

The character, the intensity, and the distribution of pain is of extreme diagnostic importance to the doctor. Both hot and cold can mask or hide pain and give a false sense of security in some abdominal disorders.

interview with Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.

"Probably the most predominant cause of inaudible or unintelligible is the voice actuator system on which the system operates," he said. "When there is a hesitation or interruption in speech the gain (volume) control usually moves from the lowest point of sensitivity to the highest point of sensitivity."

Still with us? "At the same time the tape reels, which have stopped turning with the interruption, then accelerate and pick up to playing speed. The combination of the gain control movement plus the acceleration of the tape through the recorder produces a swerving noise which normally obscures the first few syllables spoken after the interruption of speech."

Buzhardt also said that there is a relationship between how deep the voice is and the fidelity of the recording. The lower the voice, the more distortion.

He said the President has a lower voice than John W. Dean III and therefore the former White House counsel comes through more clearly. Dean, he said, has a higher-pitched, rather flat tone of speech.

"The President has, relatively speaking, a more bass voice than does Mr. Dean," Buzhardt added. "I guess Mr. (John N.) Mitchell has the basses of the voices in any of the tapes that were recorded and he is almost impossible to hear on the recordings."

For the record, it should be noted that there are about 1,670 portions claimed by White House transcribers to be inaudible or unintelligible. In 1,075 of them the President was speaking.

There is no count yet on how many were caused by swerving.

Hoffa Wife, Son Lose Union Posts

DETROIT (AP) — The wife and son of former Teamsters President Jimmy Hoffa have lost their jobs with the union. Teamsters sources differed on whether it was a purge designed to stop Hoffa's comeback campaign.

The Teamsters International Executive Board, in voting to terminate the services of attorneys on retainer, in effect fired James P. Hoffa Jr., from his $30,000-a-year job.

In another action at its meeting last week in Dallas, the board voted to abolish the women's auxiliary of DRIVE, the union's political arm. Josephine Hoffa headed the auxiliary at an annual salary of $48,000, a union spokesman said in Washington.

Sgt. Robert Ely Guest Speaker For Historical Society

SGT. ROBERT ELY

State Highway Patrol Sgt. Robert Ely of Circleville will be guest speaker for the 8 p.m., May 16, meeting of Pickaway County Historical Society in the meeting room of the museum.

Ely, who has been interested in Indians and early Ohio history has made quite a study of the subject. Along with an extensive library, Bob has made numerous field trips locating Indian sites in Fairfield and Perry counties.

Since living in Circleville, Bob began studying the history of Pickaway County — its Indians, early pioneers and Indian captives taken through or remaining in the county. He spends his leisure time in exploring village sites or surface hunting and digging for those fascinating relics of the past. A gunmaker for a number of years, he has expanded his knowledge to include making tomahawks many of which are on display by the Ohio State Historical Society in Columbus.

All interested persons are invited to this meeting as well as all Pickaway County Historical Society functions.

Sgt. Robert Ely Guest Speaker For Historical Society

SGT. ROBERT ELY

State Highway Patrol Sgt. Robert Ely of Circleville will be guest speaker for the 8 p.m., May 16, meeting of Pickaway County Historical Society in the meeting room of the museum.

Ely, who has been interested in Indians and early Ohio history has made quite a study of the subject. Along with an extensive library, Bob has made numerous field trips locating Indian sites in Fairfield and Perry counties.

Since living in Circleville, Bob began studying the history of Pickaway County — its Indians, early pioneers and Indian captives taken through or remaining in the county. He spends his leisure time in exploring village sites or surface hunting and digging for those fascinating relics of the past. A gunmaker for a number of years, he has expanded his knowledge to include making tomahawks many of which are on display by the Ohio State Historical Society in Columbus.

All interested persons are invited to this meeting as well as all Pickaway County Historical Society functions.

Rail Work Proves Fatal To Man

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Eugene Conner of Youngstown said his son, Ronald, liked working on the railroad and "wanted to follow in Dad's footsteps."

Ronald Conner, 21, was one of two train crewmen killed Wednesday when a Penn Central Transportation Co. freight crashed into a bridge over the Cuyahoga River in Cleveland's Flats area.

The elder Conner, a road foreman for engines and a 34-year veteran of Penn Central service, said he was working "in my own territory" when he heard about the accident.

"I went right to it," Conner said. He reached the scene about two and a half hours later at 7:30 a.m.

Conner said his son had worked for the Penn Central for about three years and wanted to become an engineer.

"He liked it very much," Conner said. "After graduation from high school he wanted to go on the railroad the same as I did."

The younger Conner had been living in Madison, Ohio, but the body was taken to the Fox Funeral Home in Youngstown, where services were scheduled for 9:15 p.m. Friday.

The train's engineer, 53-year-old E.J. Koester of Bellefontaine, also has been killed in the crash.

The railroad said two other crewmen aboard the train escaped injury. They were identified as the conductor, W.E. Landis, 51, of Bellefontaine and the flagman, R.B. Talisman of Willowick.

A railroad spokesman said the train tried to cross the bridge while it was in a raised position and hit the massive counterweights which were near track level at the time.

The bridge had been raised to allow a lake freighter to pass underneath. Koester and Conner were in the first of two locomotives on the 85-car train.

A Coast Guard official said diesel fuel leaking from the crashed locomotive polluted the river "pretty bad."

and Shirley McPherson attended a luncheon of the Spring Regional Meeting of Garden Clubs at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church at Circleville.

The afternoon session was conducted by Mrs. Nadine Elder of Warsaw. Entitled "Ecology in Spring Designs with the Economy Squeeze", the demonstration was quite interesting with a touch of humor.

Martha Jo Buller and Rose Hahler attended the afternoon session.

The Family Togetherness group of the Derby United Methodist Church held a special covered dish supper to honor the mothers on Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

In each family the men prepared the food, brought it and helped serve it to their special guests in the Fellowship Hall. Afterwards, the entertainment was furnished by a special singing group, "His Disciples." The event was well attended.

Cheers to John Lenz of Route 3, Orient on his recent promotion to protection and communication Director of the Engineering Department at the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company.

Greg Bigam, recent Westfall High School graduate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bigam, and Captain of Capital University's diamond team, has done it again. As a Westfall student he held All-Scioto Valley Conference for three years, and District player of the Year as a senior, made a batting average of .364, topping his last three seasons' averages of .320, .310 and .300. Greg is majoring in political science at Capital U.

'Name Game' Loses Charm For Voters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The "name game" that spelled political success for so many in Ohio has lost its charm for at least two of the Brown boys. The O'Neill's were eminently more successful.

J.W. Brown ran far down in the field of nine candidates for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor Tuesday. He would have faced incumbent John W. Brown, a Republican, in the November general election.

W. K. Brown, meanwhile, ran a game—though runnerup—race for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state. Republican Ted W. Brown, the incumbent, was unopposed.

Chief Justice C. William O'Neill of the Ohio Supreme Court, a Republican, and Joseph E. O'Neill, a Democratic candidate for the high court, weren't opposed for their party nominations.

O'Neill's son, C. William O'Neill, won easy renomination to his 28th District seat in the Ohio House of Representatives.

The name game in Ohio politics came in for some severe criticism during the campaigns leading to Tuesday's primaries.

State Rep. Richard F. Celeste of Cleveland, who won the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor said he would introduce a bill to require the secretary of state's office to issue biographical information on all candidates.

The idea would be to discourage persons with names such as Brown and O'Neill from plunging into political races without prior experience, Celeste said.

Another political game — the family game — continued as a glamorous aspect of the state's election process.

Ex-state Rep. Roger Tracy Jr., son of a former state auditor, won the GOP nomination for the auditor's job. He'll face Thomas E. Ferguson, son of the 81-year-old incumbent, Joseph Ferguson, in November.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas M. Herbert, son of a former justice and lieutenant governor, won nomination toward another six-year term.

Celeste and state Sen. Tony P. Hall

of Dayton, the Democratic nominee for secretary of state, are sons of city mayors. Hall's father, though, ran for office as a Republican.

The Family Togetherness group of the Derby United Methodist Church held a special covered dish supper to honor the mothers on Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

In each family the men prepared the food, brought it and helped serve it to their special guests in the Fellowship Hall. Afterwards, the entertainment was furnished by a special singing group, "His Disciples." The event was well attended.

Cheers to John Lenz of Route 3, Orient on his recent promotion to protection and communication Director of the Engineering Department at the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company.

'Name Game' Loses Charm For Voters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The "name game" that spelled political success for so many in Ohio has lost its charm for at least two of the Brown boys. The O'Neill's were eminently more successful.

J.W. Brown ran far down in the field of nine candidates for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor Tuesday. He would have faced incumbent John W. Brown, a Republican, in the November general election.

W. K. Brown, meanwhile, ran a game—though runnerup—race for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state. Republican Ted W. Brown, the incumbent, was unopposed.

Chief Justice C. William O'Neill of the Ohio Supreme Court, a Republican, and Joseph E. O'Neill, a Democratic candidate for the high court, weren't opposed for their party nominations.

O'Neill's son, C. William O'Neill, won easy renomination to his 28th District seat in the Ohio House of Representatives.

The name game in Ohio politics came in for some severe criticism during the campaigns leading to Tuesday's primaries.

State Rep. Richard F. Celeste of Cleveland, who won the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor said he would introduce a bill to require the secretary of state's office to issue biographical information on all candidates.

The idea would be to discourage persons with names such as Brown and O'Neill from plunging into political races without prior experience, Celeste said.

Another political game — the family game — continued as a glamorous aspect of the state's election process.

Ex-state Rep. Roger Tracy Jr., son of a former state auditor, won the GOP nomination for the auditor's job. He'll face Thomas E. Ferguson, son of the 81-year-old incumbent, Joseph Ferguson, in November.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas M. Herbert, son of a former justice and lieutenant governor, won nomination toward another six-year term.

Celeste and state Sen. Tony P. Hall

of Dayton, the Democratic nominee for secretary of state, are sons of city mayors. Hall's father, though, ran for office as a Republican.

School Levies, Bond Issues Fare Poorly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School levies and bond issues appeared to have fared poorly in Tuesday's election. Proposals to increase millage were received least favorably by voters.

Even the so-called charge-on levies to hike millage sufficiently to maintain the present level of state support for schools were rejected in some areas.

Among those defeated were levies of 4.8 mills in the Scioto Valley School District and 2.5 mills in the Huntington school district. A similar 5.9-mill levy for Adena schools was approved.

At Crestline in Crawford County, a 10.8 mill additional levy submitted to voters for the sixth time finally was approved.

Voters were reluctant to approve other proposals for tax increases, too.

The city of Chillicothe's proposed .5 mill additional levy to operate a bus system was defeated, and Ross Countians outside Chillicothe rejected a .3 mill levy to increase health department funding.

A 2 mill city operating levy renewal for Coshocton was approved by a narrow 12-vote margin, according to unofficial returns.

CHS Student Candidate In Pageant

ELIZABETH SHOLLENBERGER
The Columbus Rose Subcommission announced that Elizabeth Ann Shollenberger, 131 Dunmore Road, daughter of Nancy Shollenberger is a candidate in the annual Maiden of Roses Pageant, June 15-16.

The pageant offers up to $1000 in a scholarship to the winner, made possible by the Columbus Rose Foundation.

Graduating with the Circleville High School class of 1974, Miss Shollenberger plans to attend Princeton University.

In its 20th year, the pageant selects a Maiden of Roses and Court of four primarily on the basis of school and community activities. Poise and beauty are also important, as the girls will represent the Park at parades and special events throughout the coming year.

The pageant is open to any girl graduating this year planning to enter an accredited school of higher education.

Miss Schollenberger, with other contestants, will be interviewed by all members of the Selection Committee, June 15. She will attend a luncheon noon Saturday and will be a guest at a dance in the evening.

Activities June 16, begin with a parade at 2:30 p.m. on North High Street ending at the park. A concert will begin 4 p.m. with the pageant at 5:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend Sunday's activities.

Results of voting on local issues elsewhere around the state:

Voters in the River Valley school district in Marion County favored a 3 mill operating levy but turned down a 3.52 mill bond issue.

A 2.3 mill additional levy for Port Clinton schools was passed, but levies of 2.9 mills to upgrade teachers' salaries and 1.5 mills for more custodians and cooks were defeated.

In Lucas County, voters turned down a 3 mill library improvement levy and a .2 mill library operating levy.

Ashland voters rejected a proposed amendment to the city charter to authorize pay raises for the mayor and city finance director.

A charter amendment to force all future proposals to fluoridate Cincinnati's water supply to a direct vote of the people was approved.

Voters in Anderson Township near Cincinnati defeated a referendum to stop a zoning change which would permit an apartment complex on an 18-acre site.

Profanity Expert Loves Transcripts

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dr. Reinhold Aman takes a different view of the Watergate transcripts than the pastors and politicians who have criticized President Nixon for the salty language used in the White House.

"I just eat it up," said Aman, a professor of medieval German literature and an expert on swearing who can give 'em hell, damn and thousands of other expletives in 50 languages.

Aman, who teaches at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, sees swearing as a necessary means of letting off steam in almost every language.

"I don't advocate swearing," he said. "I don't encourage my children or students or friends to swear. I personally swear because there are so many things that bug me. That's why everyone swears, and almost everyone does."

Far from being shocked at the language in the White House transcripts, Aman finds it lacking in the very words he's interested in.

"Most of the time they are omitted, although you can sometimes predict what should be there," he said. "I've been sort of trying to fill in what it can be."

"I wish I could get all the expletives. That would be like winning a lottery or something."

Aman, 38, has plenty of experience in dealing with nondeleted expletives.

Ohio Weather
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cloudy skies, fog and rain set the weather picture in Ohio Thursday morning with little change in conditions seen over the next 24 hours at least.

Rain fell in all sections of the state during the night but by dawn was falling mostly in eastern counties. Fog was spotty and most dense in the northwest. Temperatures show a wide spread, varying from near 40 in the northwest to the middle 50s in the southeast.

The morning weather map showed a low pressure center in central Lake Erie with a trough from there to southwest Ohio. Rain and mild temperatures are east of a trough. West of the trough there are lower temperatures, fog and some drizzle. The trough and low pressure center will move east beyond the state today. Skies will be mainly cloudy today, clearing for a time in western sections tonight.

Friday, the state will come under the influence of another low pressure center which will spread rain into western and southern Ohio and return the clouds.

He has published several scholarly works on profanity patterns throughout the world and compiled dictionaries of cusswords to help explain the background and meaning of curses.

"Swearing is a means of letting off steam, to keep from getting ulcers and from keeping frustrations bottled up inside," said Aman.

"It should be used properly," he cautioned, adding that most people don't appreciate the finer points of cursing.

He said the unsophisticated curser aims insults at a foe's physical characteristics rather than gauging his cultural and educational background before using the verbal rapier.

Only a low-brow swearer relies on ethnic slurs, he said. Americans are among the least refined cursers, largely because their profane vocabulary is 25 or fewer words, Aman said.

Among his favorites curses are Yiddish's "May all your teeth but one fall out so you can get a toothache," the rhymed insults of the Turks and the singing exchanges between Eskimos.

"Tell me what swear words you use and I will tell you who you are," he said.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dr. Reinhold Aman takes a different view of the Watergate transcripts than the pastors and politicians who have criticized President Nixon for the salty language used in the White House.

"I just eat it up," said Aman, a professor of medieval German literature and an expert on swearing who can give 'em hell, damn and thousands of other expletives in 50 languages.

Aman, who teaches at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, sees swearing as a necessary means of letting off steam in almost every language.

"I don't advocate swearing," he said. "I don't encourage my children or students or friends to swear. I personally swear because there are so many things that bug me. That's why everyone swears, and almost everyone does."

Far from being shocked at the language in the White House transcripts, Aman finds it lacking in the very words he's interested in.

"Most of the time they are omitted, although you can sometimes predict what should be there," he said. "I've

Ohio Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cloudy skies, fog and rain set the weather picture in Ohio Thursday morning with little change in conditions seen over the next 24 hours at least.

Rain fell in all sections of the state during the night but by dawn was falling mostly in eastern counties. Fog was spotty and most dense in the northwest. Temperatures show a wide spread, varying from near 40 in the northwest to the middle 50s in the southeast.

The morning weather map showed a low pressure center in central Lake Erie with a trough from there to southwest Ohio. Rain and mild temperatures are east of a trough. West of the trough there are lower temperatures, fog and some drizzle. The trough and low pressure center will move east beyond the state today. Skies will be mainly cloudy today, clearing for a time in western sections tonight.

Friday, the state will come under the influence of another low pressure center which will spread rain into western and southern Ohio and return the clouds.

He has published several scholarly works on profanity patterns throughout the world and compiled dictionaries of cusswords to help explain the background and meaning of curses.

"Swearing is a means of letting off steam, to keep from getting ulcers and from keeping frustrations bottled up inside," said Aman.

"It should be use properly," he cautioned, adding that most people don't appreciate the finer points of cursing.

He said the unsophisticated curser aims insults at a foe's physical characteristics rather than gauging his cultural and educational background before using the verbal rapier.

Only a low-brow swearer relies on ethnic slurs, he said.

Americans are among the least refined cussers, largely because their profane vocabulary is 25 or fewer words, Aman said.

Among his favorites curses are Yiddish's "May all your teeth but one fall out so you can get a toothache," the rhymed insults of the Turks and the singing exchanges between Eskimos.

"Tell me what swear words you use and I will tell you who you are," he said.

The United Methodist Women met in the church social room on Wednesday afternoon.

Using the subject "Mother", Genevieve Hedges read scripture from the 19th chapter of St. John, followed by a reading "Mother", and closed the devotions with a "Prayer for Guidance" read responsively.

The president, Lucia Spangler, conducted the business meeting and reports were given by Ella Mae Jenkins and Betty McJunkin. The group agreed to give money for aid to Xenia disaster victims, and Hazel Fogler contributed to the birthday fund.

The program consisted of reading by Roanne Spung and Betty McJunkin. Beulah Robbins presented a contest, won by Maude Hedges.

Refreshments were served at attractively decorated tables, to 18 members and two guests by the hostesses, Roanne Spung, Beulah Robbins and Pattie Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. Orley Judy and Elaine and Dean Poling were recent Sunday guests of Mr. Judy's sister, Mrs. Mildred Judy Bennington of Xenia.

Mrs. Bennington's home was not damaged by the recent tornado, but the business place where she was employed was demolished as were the business locations of two of her sons. Mrs. Bennington's car was also a complete loss, due to the disaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hunt (Joanne Judy) and Mrs. Marie Bates, all of Columbus were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Orley Judy and Elaine.

Tarlton residents can be proud of the improvements which have been made at the Town Hall. The walls and woodwork have been painted, thanks to the boys from the Armory.

A new tile floor has been laid, by volunteers of the community. We do not have the names of all who helped lay the floor, but Barney Van Fossen deserves special recognition for the volunteer community work he has done, through the past years.

Funds for the improvements were derived from the card parties, sponsored by the Community Club.

Man Pleads Not Guilty To Murder

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Michial Shobek, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis., has pleaded innocent to charges of murdering an American tourist on a Bahamian beach.

Shobek broke a long courtroom silence Wednesday, entering the plea at the start of his trial for the murder of Irvin Bernstein, 44, of Ocean City.

Shobek, who also faces murder charges in the slayings of two other American tourists, had sat silent through nine previous appearances.

As the prosecution opened its case, the judge allowed Shobek's handcuffs to be removed.

In her opening remarks, Crown Counsel Janet Bostwick said that Bernstein arrived in Nassau on Jan. 17 aboard an Air Bahamas flight. His body was found on an isolated Yamacraw Beach the next morning.

Police said they found Shobek's pen and sunglasses near the body. The prosecutor said a pen and pencil owned by Bernstein were found in Shobek's possession.

Mrs. Bostwick said that a black bag found on Paradise Island in Nassau, eight miles from the death scene, contained some of Bernstein's papers and Shobek's driver's license.

Shobek also has been charged with killing Katie Smith, 17, a Detroit student, and Paul V. Howell, a lawyer from Massillon, Ohio.

Last month, Supreme Court Chief Justice Leonard Knowles ordered a psychiatric hearing for Shobek, who police say has travelled between the Bahamas and the United States for about two years. The report was not introduced when the trial opened.

Gilligan To Attend

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan will attend the Middletown Junior Achievement "Future Unlimited" banquet here May 16.

Officials said the governor will give a non-political address.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Foreign matter in your food, like a pebble in a pipe or a tack in a taco, is clearly good grounds for complaint. If you suffer injury, you are entitled to collect damages from whoever is to blame.

But the court may have a hard time deciding, in a particular situation, what matter is foreign and what is "natural." Take three actual cases:

A man bit on a turkey bone in a dish of roast turkey that he had ordered in a restaurant.

Another man encountered a hard grain of corn in a bowl of corn flakes.

A woman was injured by a chicken bone in chicken fricassee.

In each case a damage claim was filed by the victim. But each time, the claim was turned down because the item in question was not considered foreign. As the court in the turkey case put it:

"Bones which are natural to the type of meat served cannot legitimately be called a foreign substance, and a customer who eats meat dishes ought to be on his guard against the presence of such bones."

In recent years, however, courts have been putting less emphasis on what is natural and more emphasis on what a consumer might logically expect to find in his food.

Not long ago a man damaged a tooth by biting on the olive in his martini. The olive had not been pitted, although the usual hole in the end led him to think it had.

Of course, the pit was "natural" to the olive. Nevertheless a court ruled that the jury could reasonably reach a verdict in the man's favor.

"Because a substance is natural to a product in one stage of preparation," said the court, "does not mean necessarily that it will be reasonably anticipated by the consumer in the final product."

Storms Soak Wide Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thunderstorms and showers soaked a broad stretch of the eastern third of the nation today ranging from the lower Great Lakes to the Deep South.

Rain that began in the Ohio and Tennessee valleys during the night spread to the eastern Great Lakes and into Alabama and Georgia before daybreak.

Thunderstorms of lesser intensity continued along a front over the central Plains, and showers were scattered across the central Plateau and Rockies. Isolated showers sprinkled southern Florida and sections of the Washington coast.

Fair to partly cloudy skies prevailed from the lower Mississippi Valley through the southern Plains and over many Western states.

Unseasonably chilly weather clung to much of the Midwest and Great Lakes region where readings in the 30s and 40s were common overnight.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 28 at Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich., to 83 at Needles and Daggett, Calif.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. John J. Gilligan and exastronaut John Glenn patched up their eight-month-old dispute Wednesday and began making plans on how to operate their fall campaigns.

Gilligan will be seeking reelection and Glenn was the upset victor in Tuesday's primary election over U.S. Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, whom Gilligan appointed and endorsed for the nomination.

"We're looking forward to uniting the party and going into the fall campaign," Gilligan said after the two emerged from an hour-long confab in the governor's office.

Gilligan noted that Democrats often were involved in hard-fought primaries but then united in the general elections.

"The national issues," he said, "are more important than primary animosities."

Campaign aides accompanied both men to the private meeting. Gilligan walked into the cabinet room, where Glenn was waiting, to escort him into his office.

"Hello senator," Gilligan said, as he walked in holding an outstretched hand.

"I like that confidence," Glenn smiled as the two shook hands.

When they emerged an hour later, Gilligan said they had spent much of the time going over statistics of past campaigns and discussing the one in November.

Glenn will face Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, a Republican, defeated Canton businessman Peter Voss to win his party's nomination.

Glenn and Gilligan had been close friends until last September, when the governor urged Glenn to strengthen the state ticket by running for lieutenant governor.

Glenn, at a Sept. 18 meeting at Democratic headquarters, made public the offer and accused Gilligan and state party officials of trying to throw the endorsement to Metzenbaum. He called it "bossism."

Glenn said he hadn't given any thought to any changes he might want at Democratic headquarters since he will be leading the party ticket in November.

He did say that he thought the party might want to modify its endorsement procedure.

Both men agreed that their campaigns would dovetail with those of the entire party ticket in November. Gilligan will face former Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Gilligan and other regular Democrats urged support for Glenn.

But Metzenbaum gave no firm indication of what his position would be with regard to Glenn. He merely issued a statement saying he was returning to Washington to "continue to represent the people of Ohio in the United States Senate until my term expires in mid-December."

Metzenbaum said he would "leave it to the political pundits to provide an analysis" of election results.

State Rep. Richard Celeste of Cleveland, who topped a nine-candidate field for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, said "I've always had a high regard for John Glenn."

"He has demonstrated he can and will campaign hard."

Gilligan won the nomination over the relatively unknown James D. Nolan of Cleveland, who surprisingly received nearly 300,000 votes out of about a million cast.

Rhodes swept to an easy triumph in the Republican primary over state Rep. Charles Fry of Springfield and Columbiana County Engineer Bert A. Dawson.

The votes hardly had been counted when Gilligan and Rhodes exchanged verbal brickbats.

Gilligan said his administration's four-year record would be on the line. Rhodes said "the Gilligan Gougers" would be the target of his campaign.

Celeste, who will face incumbent Lt. Gov. John Brown in November, and Tony P. Hall, who won the Democratic nomination to oppose Republican veteran Secretary of State Ted W. Brown in the general election, both the party's endorsed candidates. Gilligan earlier had said those two primary races were better indicators of the success or failure of the endorsement program than the Glenn-Metzenbaum battle.

In other contested GOP races Tuesday, Franklin County Prosecutor George C. Smith won the attorney general nomination and ex-state Rep. Roger Tracy was the choice for auditor. Smith will oppose incumbent Atty. Gen. William J. Brown and Tracy will challenge Thomas E. Ferguson, son of incumbent Auditor

Joseph Ferguson.

The 22 incumbents seeking reelection to the 99-member Ohio House all won party nominations Tuesday. Five incumbents didn't run again, nine sought higher office and 61 were unopposed for renomination.

In the Senate, however, three veterans lost primary battles. They were Howard C. Cook, R-1 Toledo, defeated by Defiance Mayor Ben Ganth; Harry L. Armstrong, R-17 Logan, who lost to state Rep. Oakley C. Collins of Ironton, and Anthony F. Novak, D-23 Cleveland, a victim of Charles L. Butts of Cleveland.

the national slogan, "Get to know us before you need us."

On announcing Berger Hospital's National Hospital Week activities, John E. Reid, Administrator, said, "In this era of vast social and economic change, people are concerned about how hospitals are meeting growing health care needs, both inside and outside their walls. They have rightful interest in how effectively and efficiently hospitals are fulfilling their responsibilities, and about the rising costs of health care services."

"The objectives of our National Hospital Week 1974 activities are to encourage the people of this community, as well as those closely involved with the institution, to 'get to know us.' As they 'get to know us' we hope the public will then better understand that we need their involvement and support in order to meet our obligations to the community."

Reid said that during National Hospital Week, Berger Hospital will honor an "Employee of the Year" at the Annual Employee Recognition Dinner to be held on May 17. Employees will be given lapel buttons to help kick off National Hospital Week. There will be a display set up in the Lobby. There will be a special effort made to thank employees for their role in making the hospital one that we are proud to let others "get to know."

National Hospital Week, sponsored by the American Hospital Association, was begun in 1920 when leaders in the health field established a National Hospital day to mark the 100th anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, the woman credited with establishing the modern profession of nursing. In 1953, National Hospital Day was extended to the week-long event now observed.

In observation of the national celebration of hospital week, Mayor Frank Barnhill has signed a proclamation designating the observation as May 12-18 on the local level also.

NBA Hardship Draft Slated

NEW YORK (AP) — Scoring aces James "Fly" Williams of Austin Peay, Gary Brokaw of Notre Dame and Campy Russell of Michigan and rugged rebounder Maurice Lucas of Marquette head a list of 20 college undergraduates who will be eligible for the National Basketball Association's May 28 college draft as hardship cases.

Williams is a sophomore, the others juniors. They will become eligible to play pro ball next season, ahead of their classmates, under the NBA's hardship system whereby a player obtains special classification because of financial need.

Also accepted for the NBA's hardship draft were Alvan Adams, Oklahoma; Jimmy Baker, Nevada; Michael Sojourner and Luther Burden, Utah; Rubin Collins, Maryland-Eastern Shore; John Edward Drew, Gardner Webb; David Mitchell, West Florida; Eric Money and Coniel

Norman, Arizona; Roscoe Pondexter and his brother Clifton Pondexter, Long Beach State; Robert Taylor, San Francisco State; Mel Utley, St. John's, N.Y.; Henry Williams, Jacksonville; Rudy Jackson, formerly of Hutchinson Junior College, and Michael Washington, Southeastern Community College.

The 6-foot-5 Williams was the nation's third-leading scorer in 1973-74, averaging 27.5 points per game. As a freshman he averaged 29.5 points per game to rank fifth in the nation.

Brokaw, a guard, was a key man on the fifth-ranked Notre Dame team that ended UCLA's 88-game winning streak. The Irish finished 26-3 for the season.

Russell, a 6-8 forward, averaged 23.7 points per outing for sixth-ranked Michigan, 22-5. Lucas, 6-9, helped Marquette to a 26-5 record and a No. 3 ranking.

Scioto Downs Ready For 1974 Season

Scioto Downs will open the 1974 night harness racing season May 17 and continue for 100 nights through Sept. 10 with post time at 8 p.m. nightly except Sunday.

Scioto president Charles D. Hill disclosed that the 1974 season promises to be the best ever in the track's sixteen year history. "We have higher quality horses than ever before, and the list of horsemen that have been assigned stall space read like a 'who's who' in harness racing."

Gene Riegle, the Greenville, Ohio reinsman will be back to defend his leading driver title for the eighth straight year, and Newark's Terry Holton, the all-time race winning driver at Scioto, has checked in with 30 trotters and pacers, headed by the great Playboy Hanover with a mark of 1:56.45.

Two-time Hambletonian winner Howard Beissinger has 33 head including several 1974 Hambo eligibles.

The sport's leading all-time two minute driver Joe O'Brien checked in last Wednesday with 30 outstanding trotting and pacing prospects.

By the time opening night rolls around all 840 stalls will be filled to capacity, and director of racing, John Phillips is excitedly writing his condition sheets for the first two weeks of racing. Highlighting the opening weekend card is the $7,000 Free For All Trot on May 17, and the $7,000 Free For All Pace on May 18, Phillips promises to have plenty of surprise entries in both events.

The famed Castleton Farm of Lexington, Kentucky will be on hand before opening night, Jim Ferguson has the fleet pacers Good Bye Columbus, Keystone Journal, and Keystone Stormy, all with records of two minutes or better.

Dual-Heat Preakness Possible

BALTIMORE (AP) — Should the $150,000-added Preakness Stakes unexpectedly attract an oversized field next week, General Manager Chick Lang of Pimlico promises a simple solution.

"The easiest and fairest thing to do," Lang said today, "is simply to split the field and run two divisions. That's a lot better than the 'Rube Goldberg' way of doing things at the Kentucky Derby."

Lang referred to a ruling by the Kentucky Racing Commission last week, three days before the Derby, forbidding a split field and limiting the number of starters to 24.

"I don't want to be critical," Lang said, "but can you imagine the commission telling Churchill Downs to pick out an owner or two, to tell that their horses can't compete?"

"What if they eliminated a horse that came back to win the Preakness or the Belmont? What if someone scratches after another horse has been barred from entering?"

"I can't blame Churchill Downs for trying to come up with a solution, but you can't change the rules in the middle of the ball game," Lang said.

Churchill Downs officials, anticipating an extra large field in the 100th Derby, increased to $7,500 this year the total cost of entering and starting a horse in the classic.

Proud Flash Winner Of Lebanon Feature

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Proud Flash put on a late drive to win the featured pace mile by a length at Lebanon Raceway in 2:11 Wednesday night and pay $8.20, $5.20 and $4.

Steaming Jim placed, paying $7.40 and $4.20, and Alpine Royal was third for $3.

Cardinals Down Reds, 2-0

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Three former Boston Red Sox players did in the Cincinnati Reds in back-to-back shutouts for the St. Louis Cardinals to sweep the two-game series.

"In spring training, I wouldn't have known either of them if they walked into my office," said Cards Manager Red Schoendienst.

He referred to pitchers Lynn McGlothen, 4-1, who set Cincinnati down with four hits Tuesday night and John Curtis, 2-3, who turned the trick with three hits Wednesday night.

"I know them both now," beamed Schoendienst. "Curtis' control was better, that was a big change. He's got good stuff and if he gets the ball where he wants it he'll win."

Outfielder Reggie Smith, another ex-Red Sox, crashed two hits scoring Lou Brock in the sixth and eighth innings to down Don Gullett, 2-3. He has also been the Reds nemesis for St. Louis which has taken four of five games from the Reds this season and is 11 for 21 at the plate. He has 26 runs batted in and is hitting .375.

All three came to the Cardinals in trades over the winter.

"I knew I wasn't going to start the season bad," said Smith. "When you're happy you plan well and I'm happy just being away from Boston. I always identified with the National League. In Boston there was undo knocking in the media towards me and I wasn't exactly pleased with the guys."

"There were too many immature players who were too busy watching what the other guys did instead of taking care of themselves."

Curtis said he felt in control throughout the game.

"I must be part duck because the rain did not bother me at all," he joked. The game was played under a tornado watch from the National Weather Service, but no storm conditions materialized.

"I've been fed up with the early walks and some other bull that I've been doing out on the mound. That's just not me. I just decided to go out there and get with it tonight," he said.

Curtis erased the final 18 men he faced with the help of two double plays turned in by the Cardinals, both involving catcher John Bench who had two Reds hits.

It was the first time the Reds, 1973 Western Division champs, suffered back-to-back shutouts in 142 games. The Cubs did it to them in May, 1973.

Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson was philosophical about the double loss.

"You run into these things when you're just not hitting. It goes in streaks," he said.

Cincinnati was held to only seven hits in the two-game stint. Cincinnati is idle today and opens a three-game series with Houston here Friday. St. Louis heads for Montreal.

Royals Turn Back Rangers

By HOWARD SMITH

AP Sports Writer

Kansas City slugger John Mayberry didn't have to call his own shot Wednesday night against Texas ace Ferguson Jenkins. His manager did it for him.

"Just before John went up to the plate I cautioned him about trying to pull Jenkins' sliders and curves down the line," said Royals' skipper Jack McKeon. "I told him just to aim for the 370-foot sign ... and that is where the ball went."

Mayberry's fifth homer, a two-run shot in the eighth inning, carried over the 370-foot sign in right field and gave the Royals a 4-2 victory over the Rangers, snapping Jenkins' personal five-game win streak and extending the Rangers' losing streak to four.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox blanked the New York Yankees 4-0; the Oakland Athletics whipped the Baltimore Orioles 7-3; the Cleveland Indians downed the California Angels 32 in 11 innings; and the Chicago-Detroit and Minnesota-Milwaukee games were rained out.

Despite the loss, the Rangers hung on to first place in the West by a half-game over California.

Red Sox 4, Yankees 0

Bill Lee shackled New York on five hits and Carl Yastrzemski contributed a two-run single for Boston. Lee, who evened his record at 3-3, was helped by four double plays. Dick McAuliffe and Dwight Evans drove in the other Red Sox runs with singles.

Athletics 7, Orioles 3

Lefty Vida Blue recorded his first victory after four losses as Oakland snapped a three-game losing streak. Reggie Jackson, Bert Campaneris and Gene Tenace drove in two runs apiece for the A's. Earl Williams clubbed a two-run homer for Baltimore.

Newest Tennis Boy Wonder Proves Maturity On Court

DALLAS (AP) — He's just 17, and doesn't shave. He has a mop of unruly blond hair that flies like a pony's tail. He looks like a kid who has been separated from his mother at the supermarket.

But don't let Bjorn Borg's callow youth fool you.

"If you don't take him seriously he will murder you," says the veteran tennis star Rod Laver. "He's mature and he's very good."

Laver should know. He lost to Bjorn 6-1, 6-1 in the semifinals of the World Championship Tennis tournament this year in Barcelona.

"He could be the best 17-year-old tennis player who has ever lived," says Arthur Ashe. Ashe's career record against the youngster is 2-3, losing twice this year.

Ashe and Borg clash in one of the remaining opening-round matches of the WCT tourney tonight at the Moody Coliseum. It's Borg's first appearance in the pros' $100,000 event.

Bjorn Rune Borg of Sweden is the new wonder kid of tennis, acclaimed the greatest teenager to reach the big time since Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad toured the world for Australia in 1952.

"I don't miss school much," says Bjorn, who dropped out after his first year in high school. "I don't know what I could learn in school to make more money than I make now."

The good-looking Swede earned $49,100 on the pro circuit last year. So far in the young 1974 season he has picked up $55,145. A victory in the WCT finals here—a longshot but possible—would net him another $50,000.

"We have heads of companies in Stockholm who don't make that much money," Bjorn says realistically.

Philadelphia Flyers To Boost Morale

BOSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia Flyers have adopted a "You Gotta Believe" battle cry in hopes of squaring things against the Boston Bruins tonight in the second game of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup final series.

The Flyers have not won in Boston since their NHL expansion club posted a 4-2 victory in its first appearance at the Garden Nov. 12, 1967, and Coach Fred Shero admittedly was concerned.

"I think losing so much to Boston in the past has affected us," Shero said after the Bruins' 3-2 victory in the best-of-seven series opener Tuesday night.

NBA Hardship Draft Slated

NEW YORK (AP) — Scoring aces James "Fly" Williams of Austin Peay, Gary Brokaw of Notre Dame and Campy Russell of Michigan and rugged rebounder Maurice Lucas of Marquette head a list of 20 college undergraduates who will be eligible for the National Basketball Association's May 28 college draft as hardship cases.

Williams is a sophomore, the others juniors. They will become eligible to play pro ball next season, ahead of their classmates, under the NBA's hardship system whereby a player obtains special classification because of financial need.

Also accepted for the NBA's hardship draft were Alvan Adams, Oklahoma; Jimmy Baker, Nevada; Michael Sojourner and Luther Burden, Utah; Rubin Collins, Maryland-Eastern Shore; John Edward Drew, Gardner Webb; David Mitchell, West Florida; Eric Money and Coniel

Norman, Arizona; Roscoe Pondexter and his brother Clifton Pondexter, Long Beach State; Robert Taylor, San Francisco State; Mel Utley, St. John's, N.Y.; Henry Williams, Jacksonville; Rudy Jackson, formerly of Hutchinson Junior College, and Michael Washington, Southeastern Community College.

The 6-foot-5 Williams was the nation's third-leading scorer in 1973-74, averaging 27.5 points per game. As a freshman he averaged 29.5 points per game to rank fifth in the nation.

Brokaw, a guard, was a key man on the fifth-ranked Notre Dame team that ended UCLA's 88-game winning streak. The Irish finished 26-3 for the season.

Russell, a 6-8 forward, averaged 23.7 points per outing for sixth-ranked Michigan, 22-5. Lucas, 6-9, helped Marquette to a 26-5 record and a No. 3 ranking.

Scioto Downs Ready For 1974 Season

Scioto Downs will open the 1974 night harness racing season May 17 and continue for 100 nights through Sept. 10 with post time at 8 p.m. nightly except Sunday.

Scioto president Charles D. Hill disclosed that the 1974 season promises to be the best ever in the track's sixteen year history. "We have higher quality horses than ever before, and the list of horsemen that have been assigned stall space read like a 'who's who' in harness racing."

Gene Riegle, the Greenville, Ohio reinsman will be back to defend his leading driver title for the eighth straight year, and Newark's Terry Holton, the all-time race winning driver at Scioto, has checked in with 30 trotters and pacers, headed by the great Playboy Hanover with a mark of 1:56 4-5.

Two-time Hambletonian winner Howard Beissinger has 33 head including several 1974 Hambo eligibles.

The sport's leading all-time two minute driver Joe O'Brien checked in last Wednesday with 30 outstanding trotting and pacing prospects.

By the time opening night rolls around all 840 stalls will be filled to capacity, and director of racing, John Phillips is excitedly writing his condition sheets for the first two weeks of racing. Highlighting the opening weekend card is the $7,000 Free For All Trot on May 17, and the $7,000 Free For All Pace on May 18, Phillips promises to have plenty of surprise entries in both events.

The famed Castleton Farm of Lexington, Kentucky will be on hand before opening night, Jim Ferguson has the fleet pacers Good Bye Columbus, Keystone Journal, and Keystone Stormy, all with records of two minutes or better.

Dual-Heat Preakness Possible

BALTIMORE (AP) — Should the $150,000-added Preakness Stakes unexpectedly attract an oversized field next week, General Manager Chick Lang of Pimlico promises a simple solution.

"The easiest and fairest thing to do," Lang said today, "is simply to split the field and run two divisions. That's a lot better than the 'Rube Goldberg' way of doing things at the Kentucky Derby."

Lang referred to a ruling by the Kentucky Racing Commission last week, three days before the Derby, forbidding a split field and limiting the number of starters to 24.

"I don't want to be critical," Lang said, "but can you imagine the commission telling Churchill Downs to pick out an owner or two, to tell that their horses can't compete?"

"What if they eliminated a horse that came back to win the Preakness or the Belmont? What if someone scratches after another horse has been barred from entering?"

"I can't blame Churchill Downs for trying to come up with a solution, but you can't change the rules in the middle of the ball game," Lang said.

Churchill Downs officials, anticipating an extra large field in the 100th Derby, increased to $7,500 this year the total cost of entering and starting a horse in the classic.

Proud Flash Winner Of Lebanon Feature

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Proud Flash put on a late drive to win the featured pace mile by a length at Lebanon Raceway in 2:11 Wednesday night and pay $8.20, $5.20 and $4.

Steaming Jim placed, paying $7.40 and $4.20, and Alpine Royal was third for $3.

The harness racing hot-bed of Washington C.H. is well represented by Ray French, owner of the Lakewood Farms, Wendell Kirk, and Larry Richard.

Dick Hackett from London, Ohio, Phil Siebold of West Jefferson and the Grand Old Man from Delaware, Wayne "Curly" Smart will be back, stronger than ever.

The 100-night season will be highlighted by the twelve stake and early closing events. The six divisions of the Challenge Stakes series will kick off May 23 with the 3 yr-old pacing division, followed on successive Thursdays by the 4 year-old trot, 4 year-old pace, skip a week for the Can-Am Series on June 13, then come back on June 20 with the 3-year-old trot, the 2-year-old trot on July 4, and the 2-year-old pace on July 11.

The Can-Am Series for 3- and 4-year-old pacers as mentioned will be held on June 13. Scioto is the sixth leg of the series with the final slated to be held at Batavia Downs in New York on August 16. A total of 105 pacers have been nominated to the series, with the first leg having been completed last Sunday at Blue Bonnets in Canada.

The sport's leading race winning driver for the past two years, Herve Filion, won the first division at Blue Bonnets with the 4-year-old Bengazi Hanover stallion Cheyenne Tomahawk in 2:01 3-5, and the Ohio-owned Galion Pam captured the second division in 2:01 2-5. The series moves to Garden City Raceway in Ontario, Canada this Sunday, May 12.

Bud Jenne will be on the scene early next week to start schooling the young trotters and pacers behind the mobile starting gate.

By 8 p.m. May 17, full fields will be ready for the inaugural ten race card. Reservations in the grandstand, club house dining room, and penthouse dining room are now being accepted at 491-2515.

Small Fries Qualify For State Tourney

The Small Fries, four 11 and 12-year-old girls who bowl at Prairie Lanes, have qualified for the Ohio Junior Bowling Congress Tournament.

Lisa Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jones, bowled a 148-165-146-459 series, her sister Leslie a 117-117-415, Becky Eveland, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Eveland, a 130-151-146-437 total, Janet Lowe, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lowe, a 112-95-89-296 pin count and Lorie, Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bauer, a 106-117-89-311 total.

They qualified at Main Lanes in Columbus and will participate in the state event in June. These four girls finished third in the state last year in this tournament.

TV Grad Brings Girls Sports To Ft. Frye

Becky (Kinsell) Strahler, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Kinsell, Route 2, Ashville, has coached girls basketball teams at Ft. Frye High School in Washington County to 28 wins and eight losses during the last four years.

In addition to coaching basketball at the school, she has also begun girl's volleyball and track and this year added a softball team.

Also through her efforts girls are now being accepted into the previously all-boys Varsity Club.

Mrs. Strahler is a graduate of Teays Valley High School and Capital University. She is in her sixth year of teaching.

Cardinals Down Reds, 2-0

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Three former Boston Red Sox players did in the Cincinnati Reds in back-to-back shutouts for the St. Louis Cardinals to sweep the two-game series.

"In spring training, I wouldn't have known either of them if they walked into my office," said Cards Manager Red Schoendienst.

He referred to pitchers Lynn McGlothen, 4-1, who set Cincinnati down with four hits Tuesday night and John Curtis, 2-3, who turned the trick with three hits Wednesday night.

"I know them both now," beamed Schoendienst. "Curtis' control was better, that was a big change. He's got good stuff and if he gets the ball where he wants it he'll win."

Outfielder Reggie Smith, another ex-Red Sox, crashed two hits scoring Lou Brock in the sixth and eighth innings to down Don Gullett, 2-3. He has also been the Reds nemesis for St. Louis which has taken four of five games from the Reds this season and is 11 for 21 at the plate. He has 26 runs batted in and is hitting .375.

All three came to the Cardinals in trades over the winter.

"I knew I wasn't going to start the season bad," said Smith. "When you're happy you plan well and I'm happy just being away from Boston. I always identified with the National League. In Boston there was undo knocking in the media towards me and I wasn't exactly pleased with the guys."

"There were too many immature players who were too busy watching what the other guys did instead of taking care of themselves."

Curtis said he felt in control throughout the game.

"I must be part duck because the rain did not bother me at all," he joked. The game was played under a tornado watch from the National Weather Service, but no storm conditions materialized.

"I've been fed up with the early walks and some other bull that I've been doing out on the mound. That's just not me. I just decided to go out there and get with it tonight," he said.

Curtis erased the final 18 men he faced with the help of two double plays turned in by the Cardinals, both involving catcher John Bench who had two Reds hits.

It was the first time the Reds, 1973 Western Division champs, suffered back-to-back shutouts in 142 games. The Cubs did it to them in May, 1973.

Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson was philosophical about the double loss.

"You run into these things when you're just not hitting. It goes in streaks," he said.

Cincinnati was held to only seven hits in the two-game stint. Cincinnati is idle today and opens a three-game series with Houston here Friday. St. Louis heads for Montreal.

Pitchers Shine In National League

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
The National League is the hitters' league, right?

Utah Stars Defeat N.Y. Nets, 97-89

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — "We lucked out in the third game and made too many mistakes in the fourth," declared New York Nets' rookie Coach Kevin Loughery who now must rally his forces.

Injured Ron Boone proved the decisive factor Wednesday night in the Salt Palace as Utah's Stars escaped oblivion with a fourth-quarter rally and a 97-89 victory over the Nets in their American Basketball Association championship series.

Although New York leads the best-of-seven series, Loughery has problems.

On Monday night here, a last-second three-point shot by Brian Taylor knotted the count at the end of regulation play and the Nets went on to win 103-100 in overtime.

Boone suffered an unusual injury in the second game of the championship playoffs. His left hook caught Taylor in the teeth and severed a tendon in Boone's left hand.

He plays with the fingers taped and bandaged and on Monday scored only two points.

"I had a little less padding on my hand and the shots were just falling for me," the five-year pro veteran from

Their names are John Curtis and Jim Lonborg—although a lot of hitters are probably using more picturesque names today.

Curtis silenced Cincinnati's potent bats with a three-hitter Wednesday night, hurling the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-0 triumph over the Reds.

Lonborg went him even one better.

The former American League Cy Young Award winner manhandled San Diego, checking the Padres on two meaningless singles and pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-0 victory.

In Wednesday night's other NL games, the New York Mets beat San Francisco 4-2, Los Angeles defeated Montreal 6-3 and Houston belted Pittsburgh 8-6 in 12 innings. Atlanta at Chicago was rained out.

Cards 2, Reds 0

Curtis allowed only Andy Kosco's third-inning double and singles by Johnny Bench in the fourth and seventh. Reggie Smith, meanwhile, managed to get two hits of his own for St. Louis. And they were big ones—run-scoring doubles in the sixth and eighth innings.

Smith played for Boston in the American League last year—where both Curtis and Lonborg used to pitch.

Philis 4, Padres 0

Lonborg's shutout Wednesday was the first of the year by a Philadelphia pitcher and his first in the National League. He held the Padres to singles by John Grubb in the fourth inning and Willie McCovey in the seventh.

Mets 4, Giants 2

Jon Matlack pitched a fourhitter for the Mets—one of the hits a Bobby Bonds homer—and Jerry Grote and Felix Millan drove in two runs apiece to beat San Francisco.

Dodgers 6, Expos 3

Steve Garvey hit a two-run double in a four-run first inning that gave Andy Messersmith all the runs he needed to turn back Montreal.

Home runs by Ron Cey in the fifth and Jimmy Wynn in the seventh gave the Dodgers their other runs. Ron Fairly belted a two-run shot for the Expos.

Astros 8, Pirates 6

Dave Parker put Pittsburgh on top in the top of the 12th with a solo homer—but Doug Rader unloaded a three-run shot in the bottom of the inning to vault the Astros past the Pirates.

3 More Players Jump Grid Loops

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The latest three National Football League players to jump to the new World Football League say they may not have to play out their options before switching.

Harmon Wages, running back for the Atlanta Falcons, Guy Dennis, an offensive guard with the Detroit Lions and Larry Smith, a running back with the Los Angeles Rams, made the prediction Monday after signing contracts to play for the WFL Jacksonville Sharks in 1975.

Wages signed a reported four-year, $500,000 contract. Smith and Dennis wouldn't talk about their multiyear contracts but hinted they will earn a lot more with the WFL.

Wages said he has talked to Falcons owner Frank Wall about waiving his option year and Wall promised to give it serious consideration.

Smith and Guy also said they felt immediate release by their NFL teams is possible, but they weren't as confident as Wages.

Sharks Coach Bud Asher said he thinks "the chances are very good."

There has been speculation that NFL owners are not happy at the prospect of their contract players being bombarded all season about the fat WFL salaries from teammates on the way to the new league.

The signing of Wages, Smith and Dennis—all former University of Florida players—made it "probably the greatest day yet for the Sharks," said owner Fran Monaco.

Smith and Wages were handicapped by injuries in 1972 and played sparingly last season. Both said they are sound physically for 1974.

Dennis was first string at Detroit last season. Asher called him "a premier offensive guard."

Red China Edges Toward Olympics

LONDON (AP)—The Peoples Republic of China is moving closer week by week to participation in the Olympic Games.

By the end of next week the Chinese could be fully fledged members of five international federations governing Olympic sports.

They have been edging towards this target for the last six months. It would officially entitle them to form a National Olympic Committee, the first positive step towards sending athletes to the Games.

Salt Walther Comes Back To Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Salt Walther appreciates the sympathy, but he is ready for people to stop feeling sorry for him. Now he just wants to race.

"Yes, I do get a little tired of people feeling so sorry for me," the husky 26-year-old driver admitted. "So many people come up to me and say 'Gee, that was a terrible accident you had; what a recovery you've made.'"

"It's nice to have people so concerned, but I begin to wonder if people know me because of my driving talents or just the wreck," the Dayton, Ohio, driver added. "If anything, I hope people remember me because of my comeback, not the accident."

Walther spent 2½ months in a hospital, recovering from disfiguring burns suffered in a flaming 12-car accident at the start of the 1973 Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Nine months after the crash, he was racing again. He piloted his new blue and white McLaren — once driven by the late Peter Revson — to an eighth-place finish in his first outing, a 100-mile qualifying race at Ontario, Calif. He performed well in two other races, one in which he received superficial burns during a pit fire.

Now he is back at Indianapolis, practicing for his third 500-miler. His first day on the track, Monday, he attacked the 2½-mile course, turning in some of the fastest early speeds.

Terry Holbrook Signs With Cleveland Team

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Right winger Terry Holbrook has inked a three-year, $180,000 pact to play professional hockey for the Cleveland Crusaders, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said Thursday.

Holbrook signed a $60,000-a-year contract several months ago while playing for the Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League, the newspaper said.

LOW BRIDGE—Scott Sowers, in car 3-S, escaped injury when his car was hit broadside and rolled by car 06, driven by Francis Mardner, during qualifying race near Bechtelville, Pa.

Pitchers Shine In National League

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
The National League is the hitters' league, right?

Don't tell that to a couple of refugees from the American League. Their names are John Curtis and Jim Lonborg—although a lot of hitters are probably using more picturesque names today. Curtis silenced Cincinnati's potent bats with a three-hitter Wednesday night, hurling the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-0 triumph over the Reds.

Lonborg went him even one better. The former American League Cy Young Award winner manhandled San Diego, checking the Padres on two meaningless singles and pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-0 victory.

In Wednesday night's other NL games, the New York Mets beat San Francisco 4-2, Los Angeles defeated Montreal 6-3 and Houston belted Pittsburgh 8-6 in 12 innings. Atlanta at Chicago was rained out.

Cards 2, Reds 0
Curtis allowed only Andy Kosco's third-inning double and singles by Johnny Bench in the fourth and seventh. Reggie Smith, meanwhile, managed to get two hits of his own for St. Louis. And they were big ones—run-scoring doubles in the sixth and eighth innings.

Smith played for Boston in the American League last year—where both Curtis and Lonborg used to pitch.

Phils 4, Padres 0
Lonborg's shutout Wednesday was the first of the year by a Philadelphia pitcher and his first in the National League. He held the Padres to singles by John Grubb in the fourth inning and Willie McCovey in the seventh.

Mets 4, Giants 2
Jon Matlack pitched a fourhitter for the Mets—one of the hits a Bobby Bonds homer—and Jerry Grote and Felix Millan drove in two runs apiece to beat San Francisco.

Dodgers 6, Expos 3
Steve Garvey hit a two-run double in a four-run first inning that gave Andy Messersmith all the runs he needed to turn back Montreal.

Home runs by Ron Cey in the fifth and Jimmy Wynn in the seventh gave the Dodgers their other runs. Ron Fairly belted a two-run shot for the Expos.

Astros 8, Pirates 6

Braves Split With Mud Hens

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Righthander Max Leon tossed a six-hitter as the Richmond Braves won the second game 4-2 and gained a split with Toledo Wednesday night in an International League doubleheader.

The Mud Hens took the opener 3-2 after scoring three unearned runs in the third inning. Chris Colleta drove in two of Toledo's runs in the opener.

Leon's performance marked the first time this season that a Braves' hurler has pitched a complete game.

Salt Walther Comes Back To Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Salt Walther appreciates the sympathy, but he is ready for people to stop feeling sorry for him. Now he just wants to race.

"Yes, I do get a little tired of people feeling so sorry for me," the husky 26-year-old driver admitted. "So many people come up to me and say 'Gee, that was a terrible accident you had; what a recovery you've made.'"

"It's nice to have people so concerned, but I begin to wonder if people know me because of my driving talents or just the wreck," the Dayton, Ohio, driver added. "If anything, I hope people remember me because of my comeback, not the accident."

Walther spent 2½ months in a hospital, recovering from disfiguring burns suffered in a flaming 12-car accident at the start of the 1973 Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Nine months after the crash, he was racing again. He piloted his new blue and white McLaren—once driven by the late Peter Revson—to an eighth-place finish in his first outing, a 100-mile qualifying race at Ontario, Calif. He performed well in two other races, one in which he received superficial burns during a pit fire.

Now he is back at Indianapolis, practicing for his third 500-miler. His first day on the track, Monday, he attacked the 2½-mile course, turning in some of the fastest early speeds.

Terry Holbrook Signs With Cleveland Team

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Right winger Terry Holbrook has inked a three-year, $180,000 pact to play professional hockey for the Cleveland Crusaders, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said Thursday.

Holbrook signed a $60,000-a-year contract several months ago while playing for the Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League, the newspaper said.

LOW BRIDGE—Scott Sowers, in car 3-S, escaped injury when his car was hit broadside and rolled by car 06, driven by Francis Mardner, during qualifying race near Bechtelville, Pa.

3 More Players Jump Grid Loops

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The latest three National Football League players to jump to the new World Football League say they may not have to play out their options before switching.

Harmon Wages, running back for the Atlanta Falcons, Guy Dennis, an offensive guard with the Detroit Lions and Larry Smith, a running back with the Los Angeles Rams, made the prediction Monday after signing contracts to play for the WFL Jacksonville Sharks in 1975.

Wages signed a reported four-year, $500,000 contract. Smith and Dennis wouldn't talk about their multiyear contracts but hinted they will earn a lot more with the WFL.

Wages said he has talked to Falcons owner Frank Wall about waiving his option year and Wall promised to give it serious consideration.

Smith and Guy also said they felt immediate release by their NFL teams is possible, but they weren't as confident as Wages.

Sharks Coach Bud Asher said he thinks "the chances are very good."

There has been speculation that NFL owners are not happy at the prospect of their contract players being bombarded all season about the fat WFL salaries from teammates on the way to the new league.

The signing of Wages, Smith and Dennis—all former University of Florida players—made it "probably the greatest day yet for the Sharks," said owner Fran Monaco.

Smith and Wages were handicapped by injuries in 1972 and played springingly last season. Both said they are sound physically for 1974.

Red China Edges Toward Olympics

LONDON (AP)—The Peoples Republic of China is moving closer week by week to participation in the Olympic Games.

By the end of next week the Chinese could be fully fledged members of five international federations governing Olympic sports.

They have been edging towards this target for the last six months. It would officially entitle them to form a National Olympic Committee, the first positive step towards sending athletes to the Games.

Portuguese Adjust To Changes

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Manuel Fernandes Videira is a plasterer, a man on a scaffold, who still reaches, bends, coughs in a sea of white dust nine hours a day for the equivalent of $25 in a brown pay packet at the end of the week.

He still takes the same overcrowded trolley bus downtown to work and his wife still packs him the same lunch of fish sandwiches. But for the plasterer, life has changed since April 25, when a military coup overthrew the authoritarian regime that had ruled Portugal for 48 years.

"It has to do with the boss," says Videira. "He's gotten very quiet all of a sudden. He's not stepping on my toes any more. He's promising raises, but there's a bigger change. It's in the way he talks. Before it was always work more, work harder. Now it's just do your job properly and do it well."

More than just a regime, the military coup that the Portuguese call "our revolution" overthrew a relationship between people—one which involved a sullen acceptance of authority and an assurance that power at any level would always go unchallenged.

The plasterer's wife works at the Lisbon University canteen, and she and the other women there felt free enough after the coup to complain about working on Sundays. As a result they got weekends off.

"You could say that we are a bit of a revolutionary couple," said Videira jokingly.

Life has changed, too, though not materially, for some of the privileged class—like Maria Fernanda Portugal Ribeiro, an elegant woman with two grown sons and a husband who commands a navy training ship.

Her cleaning woman still comes to her town house, and her mother-in-law still worries that she is too outspoken.

But Mrs. Ribeiro says she is no longer ashamed of her country.

"I used to live here in constant irritation," she explained. "I was always nervous. When I tell you I hated to live in this country the way it was I am telling you the truth. I always wanted to get out. Now I feel jubilant. I want to stay and see what happens."

She said that the biggest change was in her attitude toward Portuguese men.

"I used to feel a lot of contempt for them. I used to think they were worthless, incapable of attempting anything noble. I know many other women who felt this same way. A friend called me up the other day and said the biggest surprise of the whole thing was to find out there are some men in Portugal."

Winter Wheat Harvest Large

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The agriculture department predicted Wednesday that Ohio farmers will harvest the largest crop of winter wheat on record this year.

The Ohio Crop Reporting Service estimated the winter wheat crop at 69.3 bushels—three times the 1973 output. The service estimated that Ohio farmers have 1,540,000 acres of the grain to harvest, up 114 per cent from last year. The acreage is the largest since 1954.

Yield, based on conditions on May 1, will be 45 bushels per acre, the service forecast. This is the same as the 1972 record yield.

Turnblazer Sentenced

PITTSBURGH (AP) — William J. Turnblazer, the man whose testimony led to the murder conviction of former United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, has been sentenced to 15 years in prison on federal conspiracy charges.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerald Weber imposed sentence Wednesday. Turnblazer pleaded guilty to the charges last Sept. 6, the day he and Boyle were indicted by a federal grand jury investigating the Yablonski family slayings.

That same day, previously secret state murder warrants against Boyle were released in Washington County, Pa., charging him with the Dec. 31, 1969 deaths of UMW insurgent Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

Authorities said it was Turnblazer, former president of the U M W's

Lawyers Fight Confidence Loss

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The president of the Ohio State Bar Association said today the loss of confidence by the general public in the legal profession is a foremost problem.

Walter A. Porter of Dayton, in a prepared text, said, "Obviously many factors have combined to give rise to this conclusion. Perhaps it has been influenced by so many lawyers being involved in Watergate."

Porter said he is "keenly aware of the fact that our profession was, and remains deeply embroiled in the Watergate syndrome."

Bad Information Costly To Xenia Residents

PERMIT REQUIRED

No person other than the Circleville Township Trustees or the authorized employees or agents shall make any opening in or cut into, break or otherwise disturb any road or sidewalk, curb, gutter or public way of the township unless a permit therefor shall have been obtained prior to commencement of the work, as is herein provided.

APPLICATION: CASH DEPOSIT REQUIRED

Each permit for making such opening or other disturbance shall be confined to a single project and shall be issued by the Circleville Township Trustees. Application shall be made on a form prescribed by the Trustees, giving the exact location of the proposed project, the kind of paving, the area and depth to be excavated and such other facts as may be required. The permit shall be issued only after a cash deposit sufficient to cover the cost of restoration has been posted with the Trustees, conditioned upon prompt and satisfactory refilling of excavations and restoration of all surfaces disturbed.

CASH DEPOSIT RATES: PUBLIC UTILITY EXCEPTION

(a) No person shall dig up any portion of a road in Circleville Township for any purpose, unless permission is obtained from the Trustees and a deposit is made with the office of the Clerk of Circleville Township of not less than the following:

Class "B" roads consisting of T-35 50.00

Class "C" roads consisting of T-31 25.00

All the above deposits shall cover an opening of not more than ten feet in length and two feet in width. For increments larger, the following amounts shall be added:

Class "A" roads consisting of concrete, brick and T-35 per foot 2.00

Class "B" roads consisting of T-35 1.25

Class "C" roads consisting of T-31 50

These deposits are all predicated upon the assumption that the Trustees would be required to remove debris and make a satisfactory repair to the excavation in order to properly restore the road or other public thoroughfare to at least as good a condition as it was prior to the opening. However, if the property owner or consumer doing utility installation should choose to restore the surface over the excavation, then the major portion would be encumbered by the Trustees. All deposits will be held for a period of one year so as to be assured that the final repair is durable and acceptable. Inspection to this effect shall be by the Trustees.

(b) A public utility shall not be required to comply with subsection (a) herein if such public utility is writing:

(1) Gives notice to the Trustees or Clerk that such public utility will be digging up or excavating a portion of a road at least three days before beginning (except in the case of an emergency);

(2) States that it will provide or see that provisions are made for safety barriers and warning lights and assumes the liability if they are not adequately provided;

(3) Agrees that it will pay for the proper restoration of any such surface so dug up or excavated, if it fails to meet the approval of the Trustees upon their inspection, upon completion of the restoration.

RESTORATION OF PAVEMENT: PAYMENT FOR TOWNSHIP WORK

The opening and restoration of a pavement or other surface shall be performed under the direction and to the satisfaction of the Trustees and in accordance with rules, regulations and specifications approved by the Trustees.

Upon failure or refusal of the permittee satisfactorily to fill the excavation, restore the surface and remove all excess materials within the time specified in the permit or where not specified therein, within a reasonable time after commencement of the work, the Trustees may proceed without notice to make such fill and restoration and the deposit shall be deemed forfeited. Such deposit shall be paid into the Road Repair Fund of the Township, except such part demanded and paid to the permittee.

The difference between the deposit and the charges of the Trustees for restoration services performed by it, if the amount of such services performed by the Trustees shall exceed the amount of such deposit, the Trustees shall proceed to collect the remainder due from such permittee.

BARRIERS REQUIRED

Any person engaged in or employing others in excavating or opening any road, sidewalk, or other public way, shall have such excavation or opening fully barricaded at all times to prevent injury to persons or animals.

If the space involved exceeds fifty feet in extent, then at least one additional lamp for each added fifty feet or portion thereof excavated or obstructed shall be required.

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — A bureaucratic boggle by the Small Business Administration (SBA) may cost some Xenia tornado victims thousands of dollars in unnecessary interest payments to rebuild their homes.

The snafu erupted when SBA officials handed out incorrect information on the agency's disaster loan program for two weeks after the April 3 storm.

Many residents who lost their homes said SBA spokesmen advised them to use insurance proceeds to pay off existing mortgages, with the promise that they would then be eligible to get 5 per cent loans from SBA for the full amount needed to replace their homes.

Several homeowners did so, only to discover later that either they are not eligible for any SBA funds or can get only a limited loan.

As a consequence, many Xenians are now facing the prospect of scrambling for a new loan at today's higher interest rates to get all the money they need for reconstruction.

Wayne Luders, who arrived from Seattle to head the SBA disaster operation in Ohio just two weeks ago, admits that the misinformation "seems to have occurred here."

He said the problem arose because the first SBA officials to arrive here after the tornado did not clearly understand the loan program.

But he urged victims to "give us a chance to correct any mistakes that have been made."

Under the current law, in effect since July 1973, SBA can provide 5 per cent loans to disaster victims only for the amount of uninsured damage to their homes and personal property, with a ceiling of $55,000 per family.

In addition, the agency can help refinance existing mortgages, but only if 30 per cent or more of the damage is uninsured. Even then, the refinancing is limited to an amount no greater than the uninsured loss.

But the tornado-stricken homeowners contacted by the Journal Herald all said the restrictions were not mentioned when they first visited the SBA.

Instead, the residents said they were told simply that if their homes were leveled, they were eligible for 5 per cent SBA financing for whatever was needed to pay for rebuilding.

A case in point is Roger Alexander, whose home in the Windsor Park subdivision was so badly damaged that the city has scheduled it for demolition.

Alexander—who has been laid off from his job at Chrysler Airtemp since late January—still owed $16,300 on the home to Land Mortgages, Inc. of Dayton.

He received a full insurance payment of $18,700, and decided he wanted to rebuild on the same site.

A builders representative told Alexander it will cost roughly $16,500 to reconstruct an identical home. Alexander sent the insurance check to Land Mortgages and the week after the tornado went to see the SBA representative.

At that point, Alexander said he realized it would be unwise to use the insurance proceeds to pay off his existing 7 per cent mortgage unless he had solid assurances that he would qualify for a new SBA loan.

"I told the SBA man that I could still call and stop the (insurance) check if there was any doubt I would qualify on the SBA loan, and the SBA guy said there was no problem, even though I was out of work."

It was not until two weeks later, after they had filled out the application and returned it, that SBA "said I had no loss that was uninsured and so I wasn't eligible for a loan," Alexander said.

In other words, since it would cost less to rebuild the home than Alexander had received in insurance, he did not qualify for SBA assistance under the law.

In the meantime, though, Alexander had used his insurance to pay off his mortgage and had only $2,400 left over to apply toward rebuilding.

That leaves Alexander over $14,000 short of the sum he needs to rebuild, and since he is out of work, "I've been told I can't get a new loan; I can't get nothing."

If the SBA program had been correctly explained to Alexander the first time, he might have been able to keep his old mortgage alive and use his insurance funds to cover the cost of rebuilding.

Alexander said he has tried to get the old loan reinstated by Land Mortgages, but has been told it is impossible.

Earl Portner, loan service supervisor for Land Mortgages, explained why.

"The trouble is," Portner said, "Mr. Alexander didn't call us until two weeks after his old loan had already been canceled; we called the investor to see what could be done, but the investor said there was just no way the loan could be restored at the old interest rate."

But Luders and SBA attorney Jack Look claimed that where people have mistakenly paid off their original mortgages, SBA can influence the lending institutions to restore the old loans.

To date, they said at least three banks with mortgages in the Xenia

Food Costs Move Over 16 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has lost, at least temporarily, one of his favorite lines: that the American people should count their blessings for having to spend less than 16 per cent of their take-home pay on food.

A report Wednesday by his department's Outlook and Situation Board showed that, in the first quarter of this year, after about two decades of annual decline or stability, the amount of disposable income allotted to food went up to 16.1 per cent.

On an annual basis, the percentage has been 15.7 for the last three years, even during last year's record 14.5 per cent boost in retail food prices. The expenditures-income ratio had been falling from 20 per cent in 1960 to 18.1 per cent in 1965 to 16.2 per cent in 1970.

The board also reported that it still holds as "most likely" the previous estimate of a 12 per cent increase in retail food prices for all of 1974 over all of 1973.

Warning that its 12 per cent annual rate estimate could be pulled either way by demand and supply changes, the board gave a range of 8 to 15 per cent for the final over-all average jump in retail prices over last year.

PERMIT REQUIRED.
No person, other than the Circleville Township Trustees or the authorized employees or agents shall make any opening in or cut into, break or otherwise disturb any road or sidewalk, curb, gutter or public way of the township unless a permit therefor shall have been obtained prior to commencement of the work, as herein provided.

APPLICATION: CASH DEPOSIT REQUIRED.
Each permit for making such opening or other disturbance shall be confined to a single project and shall be issued by the Circleville Township Trustees. Application shall be made on a form prescribed by the Trustees, giving the exact location of the proposed project, the kind of paving, the area and depth to be excavated and such other facts as may be required. The permit shall be issued only after a cash deposit sufficient to cover the cost of restoration has been posted with the Trustees, conditioned upon prompt and satisfactory refilling of excavations and restoration of all surfaces disturbed.

CASH DEPOSIT RATES: PUBLIC UTILITY EXCEPTION.

(a) No person shall dig up any portion of a road in Circleville Township for any purpose unless permission is obtained from the Trustees and a deposit is made with the office of the Clerk of Circleville Township of not less than the following amounts:

Class "A" roads consisting of concrete, brick and T-35	100.00
Class "B" roads consisting of T-35	50.00
Class "C" roads consisting of T-35 or oil treated	25.00

All the above deposits shall cover an opening of not more than ten feet in length and two feet in width. For increments larger, the following amounts shall be added:

Class "A" roads consisting of concrete, brick and T-35 per foot	2.00
Class "B" roads consisting of T-35	1.25
Class "C" roads consisting of T-35 or oil treated	.50

These deposits are all predicated upon the assumption that the Trustees would be required to remove debris and make a satisfactory repair to the excavation in order to properly restore the road or other public thoroughfare to at least as good a condition as it was prior to the opening. However, if the property owner or consumer doing utility installation should choose to restore the surface over the excavation, then the major portion would be unencumbered by the Trustees. All deposits will be held for a period of one year so as to be assured that the final repair is durable and acceptable. Inspection to this effect shall be by the Trustees.

(b) A public utility shall not be required to comply with subsection (a) herein if such public utility is writing:

(1) Gives notice to the Trustees or Clerk that such public utility will be digging up or excavating a portion of a road at least three days before beginning (except in the case of an emergency);

(2) States that it will provide or see that provisions are made for safety barriers and warning lights and assumes the liability if they are not adequately provided;

Such deposit shall be paid into the Road Repair Fund of the Township, except such part demanded and paid to the permittee as the difference between the deposit and the charges of the Trustees for restoration services performed by it. If the amount of such services performed by the Trustees shall exceed the amount of such deposit, the Trustees shall proceed to collect the remainder due from such permittee.

BARRIERS REQUIRED.
Any person engaged in or employing others in excavating or opening any road, sidewalk, or other public way, shall have such excavation or opening fully barricaded at all times to prevent injury to persons or animals.

WARNING LIGHTS REQUIRED.

Any person engaged in or employing others in excavating or otherwise in any manner obstructing a portion or all of any road, sidewalk, or public way, at all times during the night season, shall cause at least two illuminated red lamps to be securely and conspicuously posted on, at or near each end of such obstruction or excavation. NEW YORK (AP) — Although such shows as "Meet the Press" have long been major news attractions for Sunday audiences, few of the issues discussed on these shows have directly concerned black life in the United States.

But two radio networks serving a predominantly black audience say they hope to remedy this shortcoming this month and the next when each starts a half-hour Sunday news show.

One network, the New York-based National Black Network, says it's starting its new "Meet the Black Press" series this Sunday with a panel interview of Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., a black member of the House Judiciary Committee.

The Washington-based Mutual Black Network, part of the Mutual Broadcasting System, says its Sunday news show, "The Mutual Black Forum," will start in June at a date that hasn't yet been decided.

Both new shows will be taped in advance, network officials say.

Mutual's show will be moderated by MBN newscaster Glen Ford, who'll be helped out each week by a different Mutual newsmen and occasionally by a third reporter from outside the network, Mutual said.

The National Black Network's Sunday show will be moderated by newsmen Ed Shannon, with two newsmen from outside the network brought in as guest panelists,

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to April. 20) If any of your plans have been blocked lately, THIS is the time to try again. Study new trends since you will soon play an active role in an unexpected situation.

TAURUS: (Apr. 21 to May 21) Remain your inborn optimistic self as you wade through weighty matters, complicated issues or just plain tasks. Time is very much on your side now.

GEMINI: (May 22 to June 21) A distant goal now seems to be within reach. Press on, and don't let others discourage you.

CANCER: (June 22 to July 23) A new surge of energy should carry you far along the road to success and recognition. But keep your eye on the main objective. Don't go off on tangents.

LEO: (July 24 to Aug. 23) Do not let a personal disappointment mar your overall perspective. Continue to aim for high goals. Your adeptness, know-how and intuition should be potent now.

VIRGO: (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) By investigating background information you receive, you may find a good way to improve your financial set-up. But DO investigate. Don't act impulsively.

LIBRA: (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) A good day for "pulling strings." Persons of influence will be highly amenable should you need their help.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) Curb tendencies toward combativeness. You can be your independent self without being arrogant or domineering—and you'll gain more.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) If you have doubts or uncertainties about launching a certain project, it would be well to heed. Try to find the underlying reasons for your hesitancy.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some unprecedented situations or unusual propositions indicated. Study well but defer taking action until early next week.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Under good Saturn influences, your imagination is heightened. Give your creative ideas the "full treatment." They should work out well.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some difficulty in communication likely. Be especially careful in what you tell another "confidentially." It could boomerang.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely talented individual and have all the potentials for making a great success in life—if you use them. You are, however, inclined toward laziness at times and this trait you MUST curb if you are to succeed in your undertakings. Depending on your inclinations and education, of course, you could excel in science (medicine particularly), any one of the arts or in any profession dealing with the outdoors. You have a great love of heritage and tradition and would make an excellent historian. You like to travel but, at heart, you are a homebody and are unusually devoted to your family. Birthdate of: Claude Rouget DeLisle, author of "La Marseillaise"; James, Viscount Bryce, Eng. jurist, statesman; Fred Astaire, world-renowned dancer.

The National Black Network's Sunday show will be moderated by newsmen Ed Shannon, with two newsmen from outside the network brought in as guest panelists, NPN officials said. The two networks now serve 157 radio affiliates with a basic daily diet of black-oriented news and sports items. What prompted the new shows?

"We simply felt there was a need to bring black — and white — social, political and economic leaders to a forum in which questions are raised in terms of the black community," said NBN president Eugene Jackson.

A similar reply came from Ralph Featherstone, general manager of the Mutual Black Network, who said the routine fare of sports and news just wasn't enough to sufficiently inform an audience. The two black networks are relatively new in broadcasting. Featherstone said his company began operating two years ago this month and now has 92 affiliates. Jackson said his network started operations in July a year ago and now has 65 affiliates.

Record Field Set In Ladies Tournament

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A record field headed by defending champion Judy Rankin and Jo Ann Prentice, the leading money winner of the year, begins play Friday in the $35,000 American Defender Golf Classic.

A pro-am event today made up of 44 teams served as a warmup for the 54-hole tournament which carries a $5,000 first prize.

Carol Mann and Kathy Whitworth, each winner of the Raleigh event three times, are entered along with another former champion, Sandra Haynie.

Wellman Film Festival Opens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Most motion picture directors are a little screwy. I know that fiars are, and I have been both, so draw your own conclusions."

The writer is William A. Wellman, whose 75 movies included "Wings," "Public Enemy," "Call of the Wild," "A Star Is Born," "Nothing Sacred," "Beau Geste," "The Oxbow Incident," "Story of G.I. Joe" (his favorite), "Battleground" and "The High and the Mighty."

Also such bombs as "Lady of Burlesque," "The Next Voice You Hear," "Westward the Women" and "Lafayette Escadrille" (his last, in 1958).

He writes: "A bad picture is like a frightful birthmark on your face — it never leaves you, first run, second run, reruns, TV prime time, late time, lousy time; it's always there for people to stare at unbelievably or turn away from or worse still turn off, or should that be better still?"

"It's your eternal badge of embarrassment."

During his 38 years as a director, Wild Bill Wellman earned his name, laughing, brawling and bulling his way through 75 movies, five marriages, countless feuds and many friendships.

Now 78 and as feisty as ever despite a long battle with arthritis, the director is enjoying a belated spotlight.

Wednesday night marked the start of a 39-film Wellman festival at the Royal Theater in West Los Angeles, organized by the director's actor-son, William Jr., and sponsored by Tom Laughlin ("Billy Jack"), who was hired by Wellman for "Lafayette Escadrille."

Hawthorne is publishing Wellman's memoirs, "A Short Time for Insanity," a remarkable confessional

Senate Nixes Increased Aid To South Vietnam To July 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has spent all of its allotted military aid money for South Vietnam, forcing revision or cancellation of some munitions contracts and a likely suspension of U.S. military help for the Saigon government for the next two months.

While Pentagon officials were stung by the Senate's rejection of $266 million in additional military aid for South Vietnam, they are even more fearful the Congress will make deeper cuts in the same aid request for the coming fiscal year.

In a surprising, successful fight led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the Senate voted 43 to 38 Monday to limit U.S. aid to Vietnam to a previously established $1.126 billion ceiling.

The vote caused Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger to order a series of emergency meetings to decide how to react.

Pentagon sources indicated American shipments to Saigon probably would be held up through the end of the fiscal year to remain in compliance with the Senate cutoff.

At the White House, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said top Nixon administration officials were "deeply disappointed" in the Senate vote.

He predicted the congressional cutoff would result in a military imbalance in Vietnam as a result of continued heavy infiltration of troops and equipment by the North Vietnamese into South Vietnam.

Though Warren indicated attempts may be made again to raise the aid ceiling, Pentagon sources said no attempt would be made to influence a conference committee of House and Senate members who might consider it again.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A record field headed by defending champion Judy Rankin and Jo Ann Prentice, the leading money winner of the year, begins play Friday in the $35,000 American Defender Golf Classic.

A pro-am event today made up of 44 teams served as a warmup for the 54-hole tournament which carries a $5,000 first prize.

Carol Mann and Kathy Whitworth, each winner of the Raleigh event three times, are entered along with another former champion, Sandra Haynie.

Wellman Film Festival Opens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Most motion picture directors are a little screwy. I know that fliers are, and I have been both, so draw your own conclusions."

The writer is William A. Wellman, whose 75 movies included "Wings," "Public Enemy," "Call of the Wild," "A Star Is Born," "Nothing Sacred," "Beau Geste," "The Oxbow Incident," "Story of G.I. Joe" (his favorite), "Battleground" and "The High and the Mighty."

Also such bombs as "Lady of Burlesque," "The Next Voice You Hear," "Westward the Women" and "Lafayette Escadrille" (his last, in 1958).

He writes: "A bad picture is like a frightful birthmark on your face — it never leaves you, first run, second run, reruns, TV prime time, late time, lousy time; it's always there for people to stare at unbelievably or turn away from or worse still turn off, or should that be better still?"

"It's your eternal badge of embarrassment."

During his 38 years as a director, Wild Bill Wellman earned his name, laughing, bawling and bulling his way through 75 movies, five marriages, countless feuds and many friendships.

Now 78 and as feisty as ever despite a long battle with arthritis, the director is enjoying a belated spotlight.

Wednesday night marked the start of a 39-film Wellman festival at the Royal Theater in West Los Angeles, organized by the director's actor-son, William Jr., and sponsored by Tom Laughlin ("Billy Jack"), who was hired by Wellman for "Lafayette Escadrille."

Hawthorne is publishing Wellman's memoirs, "A Short Time for Insanity," a remarkable confessional

Though Warren indicated attempts may be made again to raise the aid ceiling, Pentagon sources said no attempt would be made to influence a conference committee of House and Senate members who might consider it again.

Instead, said Pentagon officials, the chief worry is salvaging a $1.6 billion Vietnam aid ceiling for the new fiscal year starting July 1. The House Armed Services Committee already has lopped off $200,000 of that figure, indicating that any attempts for a substantial military support program for the Saigon government will have trouble in the Congress.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Mysteries, love stories and warm views of family life are popular with teenagers. Ellen Simpson liked the mystery, "They never Came Home" by Lois Duncan. As she says: "This is a very interesting, unusual book. It is about a girl named Joan and her brother Larry. Frank and Larry go to the mountains and they never return. People think they are dead, but their bodies are never found. Joan tries to face their death, but learns that two boys of the same description are seen in California. Joan also gets caught in a drug ring."

"The Boy Who Could Make Himself Disappear" sounds like an exciting mystery but Melanie Bower found out titles can be misleading. Melanie writes: "Roger Baxter has many problems at home. He has a speech defect. He pronounces his R's like W's. His parents are divorced. Read about his many problems and his few very nice friends in this sad, but good, book."

Speaking of titles, would you guess that "One Perfect Rose" is the story of a career girl? Here's what Cheryl

Hawkins has to say about it. "This is a delightful story about Priscilla Sage. What sets Prill apart from the rest is that instead of going to college she chooses to find a job. Her new job in interior decoration and her three intriguing dates present many challenges for her growing mind."

Susan Crabtree tells us her reactions to the very popular paperback, "Room For One More." "It is about a family that adopts children. Things happen that are humorous. For example, they have a turtle that drowns and they have to give it artificial respiration. The family was just an experiment that they were trying after they lost one of their own children."

"Haunted Summer" is a very exciting mystery that Deanna Moore enjoyed. We read anxiously as Rilla has to decide whether to run away after hitting a boy with her truck. Which one of us would admit to injuring someone, especially after seeing him safely to the hospital?

Feller Wins Court Suit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Bob Feller says he'll wait until things settle down before making plans with the former Mrs. George Wolf.

Mrs. Wolf was at his side Wednesday, smiling and crying happily after a Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court jury cleared the former Cleveland Indians' pitching great of alienation of affection charges.

"This is my fourth no-hitter," Feller remarked.

The 55-year-old Feller was sued by George E. Wolf, a grocer from Benton Harbor, Mich., for $1.5 million.

Wolf charged that Feller stole the love of his wife of 27 years, but Mrs. Wolf testified on the witness stand that love had left her marriage before she met Feller.

She and Feller admitted having had an affair that stretched back to 1966. She said Wolf knew of her relationship with Feller and encouraged it.

Mysteries, love stories and warm views of family life are popular with teenagers. Ellen Simpson liked the mystery, "They never Came Home" by Lois Duncan. As she says: "This is a very interesting, unusual book. It is about a girl named Joan and her brother Larry. Frank and Larry go to the mountains and they never return. People think they are dead, but their bodies are never found. Joan tries to face their death, but learns that two boys of the same description are seen in California. Joan also gets caught in a drug ring."

"The Boy Who Could Make Himself Disappear" sounds like an exciting mystery but Melanie Bower found out titles can be misleading. Melanie writes: "Roger Baxter has many problems at home. He has a speech defect. He pronounces his R's like W's. His parents are divorced. Read about his many problems and his few very nice friends in this sad, but good, book."

Speaking of titles, would you guess that "One Perfect Rose" is the story of a career girl? Here's what Cheryl

Hawkins has to say about it. "This is a delightful story about Priscilla Sage. What sets Prill apart from the rest is that instead of going to college she chooses to find a job. Her new job in interior decoration and her three intriguing dates present many challenges for her growing mind."

Susan Crabtree tells us her reactions to the very popular paperback, "Room For One More." "It is about a family that adopts children. Things happen that are humorous. For example, they have a turtle that drowns and they have to give it artificial respiration. The family was just an experiment that they were trying after they lost one of their own children."

"Haunted Summer" is a very exciting mystery that Deanna Moore enjoyed. We read anxiously as Rilla has to decide whether to run away after hitting a boy with her truck. Which one of us would admit to injuring someone, especially after seeing him safely to the hospital?

Feller Wins Court Suit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Bob Feller says he'll wait until things settle down before making plans with the former Mrs. George Wolf.

Mrs. Wolf was at his side Wednesday, smiling and crying happily after a Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court jury cleared the former Cleveland Indians' pitching great of alienation of affection charges.

"This is my fourth no-hitter," Feller remarked.

The 55-year-old Feller was sued by George E. Wolf, a grocer from Benton Harbor, Mich., for $1.5 million.

Wolf charged that Feller stole the love of his wife of 27 years, but Mrs. Wolf testified on the witness stand that love had left her marriage before she met Feller.

She and Feller admitted having had an affair that stretched back to 1966. She said Wolf knew of her relationship with Feller and encouraged it.

Lowe's Low Prices

Now More Necessary Than Ever

Long before the just-lifted price control program of the federal government, Lowe's had a price control program of our own — called Lowe's Low Prices. The idea was, and is, to hold prices at the lowest possible level on brand-name merchandise. And it has worked well. Lowe's has grown but our profit after taxes has always been less than 4c per dollar of sales. Last month, to prove that not all prices are soaring, we published a 36-page Un-flation Consumer Guide (free at your Lowe's store) and show verified examples of Lowe's lower prices. Another truth, and bad news, is that inflation is real and growing in labor and materials. The good news is that our policy still is to maintain our prices as low as possible. These low prices are guaranteed for the next 10 days.
